Portrait of No. 1 Jap:

Crafty Yamashita Faces Hardest Test Of Career in Bataan

By AUSTEN LAKE

Today in the sun-blistered, Filipino farm town of San Fernando, forty miles north of Bataan's MacArthur-held peninsula, a Japanese general is plotting death, ruin and capture for the little army of gentlemen-unafraid.

The Jap general is Tomoyuki Yamashita, Nippon's No. 1 military genius and a man whose name carries the same magic spell to his stunted countrymen as does MacArthur's to the American people. The two strong men of East and West have come face to face for the final, macabre contest in which the stakes are all-or-nothing.

Gen. Yamashita

Undoubtedly every U. S. and Filipino soldier who is hugging his rocky citadel among the mountain jungles, knows that Fate and Yamashita are brewing a witch broth, and that a vital, all-out battle is at hand. MacArthur and his bony-jawed officers are fully aware. And their answer, while the world waits, is "Come and get us."

Japs Lose Face

Japan has lost face. Elsewhere its armies have swept like a crimson tidal wave over the archipelagos of the China sea. Allied strongholds have tumbled like cardboard toys. Its wizened armies have mopped up western soldiery with appalling competence. But MacArthur and his beleaguered force have held their ground and taken their savage toll.

Japan admits this by sending its pre-general to deal with a task that has stumped his predecessor—bald, flat-faced Gen. Masaharu Homma whom, unconfronted rumor says, killed himself with a ceremonial sword from pure pique. Japan denies this, claiming that Homma is alive and home-bound. But it agrees that MacArthur, against 10-to-1 odds and with meager materials, has whipped its war-seasoned horde to a standstill.

Pro-Axis General

Who is Yamashita? The aquatic, porcine Jap is the officer who directed the successful conquest of Malaya and reduced the "impregnable" $400,000,000 fortress of Singapore. Animal-cute and with a background of life-long soldiering he swept through the steaming tangle of the Malayan wilderness and its swamp-pitted backlands, wiping out or capturing four British divisions. As a feat it was the apex of a military career which has yet to meet failure.

So Japan chose him to crack that hardest of all nuts—MacArthur. Long before Pearl Harbor and that sinister December 7, Yamashita stood as the ultra pro-Axis general of Japan. Long before the fateful days of the panzer blitz, the fiasco of the Maginot Line and the debacle at Dunkirk, Yamashita was a devout disciple of Germanism and Prussian war methods. He was saturated in that system from youth.

Military association between Tokyo and Berlin began in the very year that Tomoyuki Yamashita opened his twin shoe-button eyes—the poet Franco-Prussian year of 1885. Germany had beaten the politically controlled armies of Napoleon III, just as, later, the Nazis were to knife through the politically riddled armies of Gamelin.

It was a period when Japan was just emerging from a self-imposed medievalism and learning the mechanized ways of the West. Thirty-five years before, Admiral Perry had sailed his impudent fleet into Japanese waters and obliged a reluctant but helpless Mikado to abandon his isolation for free trade with the outside world, little realizing that by so doing he was lifting the lid of a gigantic Pandora's Box that would release latter-day fury on the civilized world.

Switch to German

At first the Japanese had patterned their infant army on the theoretical principles of the French. But after the disaster of the Prussian war, they switched to the German war school with that fanatical adoration that the Jap has for anything successful. Their prime virtue was as copyists.

Its national eyes scarcely open to the blaze of international daylight, Japan already had military

British Lost All Torpedo Planes in Channel Battle

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons today that "a very much more powerful and faster" torpedo bombing plane now is coming into active production for the fleet air arm, which lost all of the torpedo-carrying Swordfish planes with which it sought to prevent the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau from running the Straits of Dover.

Alexander said that the fleet air arm had been furnished with fighter planes and other types from the United States, but that "a good many alterations had to be made to make them successful."

U. S. TROOPSHIPS ARRIVE IN AUSTRALIA, BRITISH SAY

Washington March 11 (INS)

"Several convoys with American reinforcements have arrived in Australia," the British radio said today in a German-language broadcast picked up in New York by CBS.

CBS said the broadcast was "brought to the attention of the Navy Department in Washington, which had no comment."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another case in which news vital to the American public has been revealed from British sources.)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

Beating violently at Japanese invasion flotillas which nevertheless apparently still were being marshalled above the mainland, the Royal Australian Air Force reported tonight that seven enemy ships were known to have been sunk or damaged and two others probably damaged in the waters of New Guinea.

JAPS OPEN BURMA-INDIA WATER ROUTE

Mandalay, Burma

March 11 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

The withdrawal of British troops from the southern Burma trap left the Japanese in possession today of the great Irrawaddy delta which bulges 100 miles into the Andaman sea and extends 160 miles from the Gulf of Martaban to the Bay of Bengal.

Its ports, Rangoon and Bassein, now are open to the Japanese navy, and it seemed likely that Japan's next sea move might be directed against the harbor of Akyab, close to the frontier of Bengal Province, India, and the Chittagong coast.

It can be said now that Rangoon, always regarded as a probable loss because of its exposed position, might have held out longer, if some of the best Imperial battalions had not been depleted seriously in the disastrous struggle between the Blin and Sittoung rivers in mid-February.

Chinese sources said the repeated defeats in Burma could have been stopped earlier if Chinese forces had been sent into action on the actual Burma battlefield sooner.

More experienced than most of the Imperial troops in Burma, schooled against the favorite tricks of the invaders, the Chinese troops now are regarded as taking their full share in the allied defense under Lieut.-Gen. H. R. L. G. Alexander, new British commander on the Burma front.

It was reported reliably that the Chinese troops will be supported by large numbers of American warplanes.

Of this number two ships definitely were sunk, four were set aflame and one was beached, said an official announcement listing results of a series of smashing assaults yesterday on Japanese ship concentrations in the harbor of Salamaua, on New Guinea's east coast.

But even as the air arm continued its running counter-offensive action a large new Japanese convoy was reported heading for Port Moresby on the southern New Guinea coast, in an area only 300 miles from Cape York on the mainland.

The Australian Associated Press observed that the government had no denial to offer of these reports.

Port Moresby likewise was under new enemy aerial assault, 12 bombers participating in this thrust, although there was no immediate announcement of damage there.

The RAAF's action was described in its communique as "one of the heaviest aerial attacks so far launched in the New Guinea area."

It said "direct hits were scored upon a warship which was either a cruiser or a large destroyer," and added:

"When the aircraft left the target area one ship was burning out and three others were on fire. Two of them were sinking and one was being beached."

The Sydney Sun reported that at least one of the ships—an 800-ton transport—was sunk. Other reports said six direct hits with

British Again Blast Ruhr

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—British bombers battered industrial areas of Germany's Ruhr valley last night for the third night in succession in a new aerial offensive of gathering power.

The British said observation of results of the bombing was made difficult by poor visibility, but that "a considerable weight of bombs was dropped on an industrial area."

Four planes are missing, the air ministry said.

NAZIS SEEK AID IN WAR ON RUSSIA

By the Associated Press

Hitler was reported today to have called upon Italy, Hungary and Slovakia for 2,600,000 fresh troops to bolster the heralded Nazi spring offensive and fill the gaps left by nine months of slaughter in the war with Russia.

Advices reaching London said Hitler, desperately needing man power to replace the Nazi losses to dead, wounded and missing, had demanded 1,000,000 troops from Italy, 1,500,000 from Hungary and 100,000 from Slovakia.

Soviet authorities declared on Feb. 22 that Germany had lost 6,000,000 men on the Russian front.

With pre-spring thaws already melting snow on the long battle-line, dispatches indicated that the Russians were smashing with ever-increasing fury to demoralize the Germans and keep them reeling backward instead of organizing a spring counter-drive.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that the Red armies were striking in mass attacks on the Southern (Ukraine) front and holding the initiative on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts.

"Heavy and bloody losses were inflicted upon the enemy," the German high command said, in a communique which also noted "uninterrupted heavy defense fighting" by German troops.

Soviet dispatches reported the capture of an important junction in the Lake Ilmen sector, where trapped survivors of the German 16th Army, originally estimated at 96,000 soldiers, were reported suffering from lack of food, clothing and munitions.

A Red army bulletin also announced the capture of three villages on the central front.

United States-built trucks and motor cars, some still bearing the olive drab paint of the U. S. Army, mingled with Russian vehicles in Moscow today as fresh evidence of Allied supply aid for the Red Army.

Dominion Pledged India--After War

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill repeated today Britain's promise of dominion status for imperiled India after the war and announced that his ranking aide, Sir Stafford Cripps, would go to India as an emissary to seek assurance that a precise plan already drafted by London would gain general Indian acceptance.

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL ASSUMES WAR POWER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 11 (AP)—President Getulio Vargas issued a decree today giving himself the authority to declare a state of war or a state of emergency throughout the country in case of foreign menace, imminence of internal disturbance or existence of a plan of conspiracy.

Promptly answering the torpedoing of the fourth Brazilian ship off the United States coast in three weeks, the decree cleared the way for imprisonment of Axis subjects and seizure of Axis property.

Orders for seizure of Axis property were expected within 48 hours.

Any endangering of the country's institutions or the safety of its citizens or territory is sufficient cause for the President to declare a state of emergency in the whole country or any part of it, the decree provided.

At the same time the government shipping line, Lloyd Brasileiro, announced that suspension of all sailings of Brazilian ships to the United States had been ordered by the government and all such ships en route to United States ports ordered recalled home.

This followed upon the loss of four Brazilian ships totalling 22,221 tons by submarine attacks off the North American coast.

(Brazil's shipping losses in the World War led her to declare war against Germany.)

It seemed likely the Brazilian government would decide to await the organization of a convoy system rather than continue to risk heavy losses to its unarmed merchant marine.

The loss of the 4th Brazilian ship, the 5152-ton Cayru, sunk Sunday night about 130 miles off Ambrose Light, was announced yesterday. Fifty-three crew members

NEW DRAFT LOTTERY 6 P.M. ON MARCH 17

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Selective service officials today set 6 p. m., Eastern war time, as the hour for starting, March 17, the draft lottery which will determine the order of liability for service of an estimated 9,000,000 men who registered Feb. 16.

Officials said Secretary of War Stimson had been asked to draw the first capsule in the lottery, the third since enactment of the selective service law, but the first since war was declared. President Roosevelt, who drew the first number in the first lottery, will not attend the third drawing.

All the Feb. 16 registrants—men aged 20 to 44 inclusive who had not previously registered—now are being assigned serial numbers. Capsules bearing these numbers will be drawn in the lottery from a gold fish bowl and the order in which they are drawn will determine the registrant's order number.

Officials said further details of the lottery will be announced later in the week.

The promise of Indian self-government within the British commonwealth of nations after the war, first made in August, 1940, so far has failed to mollify Indian Nationalists.

But Churchill, in a long-awaited statement to the House of Commons, disclosed that the government, in order to "clothe these general declarations with precision and to convince all classes, races and creeds in India of our sincere resolve," had gone a step forward and agreed to a detailed plan.

He did not, however, disclose the exact nature of the concessions by which his government hopes to win the loyalty of Indians 350,000,000 people for the defense of the rich sub-continent now threatened by the Japanese advance in Burma and to the Indian ocean.

"We should ill serve the common cause if we made a declaration which would be rejected by essential elements in the Indian world and which would provoke fierce communal disputes at the moment when the enemy is at the gates of India," he said.

The text of Churchill's statement follows:

"The crisis in the affairs of India arising out of the Japanese advance has made us wish to rally all forces of Indian life to guard their land from the menace of the invader.

"In August, 1940, a full statement was made about the aims and policy we were pursuing in India. This amounted in short to a promise that, as soon as possible after the war, India should attain dominion status in full freedom and equality with this country and other dominions, under a constitution to be framed by the Indians by agreement amongst themselves and acceptable to the main elements in Indian national life.

PROTECT MINORITIES

"This was, of course, subject to the fulfillment of our obligations for the protection of minorities, including the depressed classes, and of our treaty obligations to the Indian States and to settlement of certain lesser matters arising out of our long association with the fortunes of the Indian subcontinent.

"However, in order to clothe these general declarations with precision and to convince all

HUB HOLY CROSS CLUB INVESTS ITS FUNDS TO BUY BOMBER BONDS

$6000 SALE—Helping Uncle Sam put more bombers in the air are William A. McElroy (left), president of the Holy Cross Club of Boston, and A. Frank Montgomery, Jr., treasurer, as they purchase $6000 in Defense Bonds from Francis D. Crimmins (right), Union Savings Bank teller.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS! Remember the frantic pleas which have arisen from the bloody battlefields of Luzon . . . Malaya . . . Singapore . . . and Java:

"Give us planes and we can win!"

To snatch back these important possessions from the marauding Japs the United Nations must have BOMBERS.

Mr. and Mrs. America, are you doing YOUR part?

Today the Holy Cross Club of Boston, realizing the importance of every individual and organization doing its full share, announced the purchase of $6000 in BONDS with part of the club's Scholarship Fund.

William A. McElroy, president of the club, and A. Frank Montgomery, treasurer, said the decision to BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS was reached after careful deliberation by the officers and directors of the Holy Cross Club.

"By this action the club felt that it could render a service to the country by putting the funds reposing in a savings bank to work for democracy," President McElroy said.

INVESTMENT IMPROVES

"At the same time the club will realize a GREATER rate of interest on its investment than it would receive if the funds were left dormant in the bank.

"The decision received enthusiastic and unanimous approval of the club membership and they join me in commending the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser for its patriotic efforts in promoting the sale of BONDS and STAMPS."

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS.

When you buy BONDS specify that your purchase should be credited to the MASSACHUSETTS BOMBER driver. Then write and tell the BUY A BOMBER editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., of your purchase.

If you have to skimp a little to raise the money, be GLAD to do it. Our gallant President has told us we must ALL make sacrifices to assure FINAL VICTORY. What better way to sacrifice here at home than by providing BOMBERS for our boys fighting on the far-flung battle fronts?

STORE HOLDUP IN HARTFORD NETS $19,000

HARTFORD, Ct., March 11 (AP)—Three men held up the timekeeper's office at the G. Fox & Co. department store today and escaped with a payroll estimated at $19,000.

Hartford police pursued the bandits to Windsor, about five miles north, from which point State Police officers from Windsor and Springfield, Mass., took up the chase.

Two of the men, carrying pistols, entered the room where maintenance and warehouse employees were being paid and, while one of them covered about 15 employees standing in line, the other entered the timekeeper's room, threatened Paymaster Robert Taylor with a pistol and scooped the contents of a drawer into a bag he carried.

The two men backed out of the room, joined a third who had kept watch outside and sped away in a 1937 or 1938 model small black sedan.

Bottlenecks Slow Up U. S. Plane Output

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11—American aircraft factories are operating at far from capacity today.

Since the United States went to war, the aviation industry could have built 3000 more planes than it did produce, a checkup disclosed. Further, unless material bottlenecks are broken, between 12,000 and 18,000 additional planes which could be built this year won't materialize.

Actually, according to spokesmen in the industry, most plants are operating at a rate of only 125 to 150 hours a week, when their facilities could be used 168 hours a week.

Donald M. Nelson, war production director, is planning a drastic shakeup in the plane section of WPB in an all-out effort to put production on the 168-hour week.

The plane section is now headed by Merrill C. Meigs, Chicago publisher. Nelson is sending his own engineers and experts into plane plants, sometimes in temporary advisory capacities and other times they remain to direct output.

Aviation industry spokesmen say the "lost production" in December, January, February and March cost and is costing this country 3000 planes which might have been built. Material shortages are responsible. The aviation industry did not receive A-1-A priority ratings for materials until two weeks ago.

They declared 1000 pursuit ships could have been built for Java, 1000 more for Australia with the facilities that had to stand idle. However, they admit the planes would have been of no use if there were no ships to take them to the Pacific fighting fronts. Nelson is exerting heavy pressure on the shipbuilding and steel industries,

National Sales Tax Urged on Congress

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—W. J. Schieffelin, Jr., New York State Chamber of Commerce official, told the House Ways and Means Committee that since state sales taxes "had worked," Congress should try it for the nation.

"States have been successful in collecting it," he said, "and we think the time has come for you to take the bit in your mouth and impose it on the country."

Schieffelin recommended yesterday that Congress enact a graduated sales tax ranging from 2 per cent on food to 10 per cent on other items which he said would raise $4,000,000,000. He proposed that another $1,000,000,000 be raised from increased individual and corporate taxes.

Speaking for the Chamber, he proposed that the rest of President Roosevelt's request for $7,000,000,000 be deferred until fall. Returning to the witness stand for a second day, members asked about the desirability of two tax bills in one year.

Then he expressed the personal opinion that Congress should approve a $7,000,000,000 tax bill as soon as possible.

"This Chamber program was written and approved before the fall of Singapore and Java," Schieffelin said, "and when the country was not as war conscious as it is today."

Sentiment for some kind of a sales levy appeared to be growing among congressmen. Some members took open exception to Secretary Morgenthau's program which calls for raising $7,610,000,000 chiefly through stiffer individual income taxes and corporation levies, and from new excise taxes.

Morgenthau and many Treasury officials have expressed their opposition to a sales tax, contending among other things that it would be inequitable and inflationary.

Milk flowed in all directions today when a milk truck was in collision with another machine at the corner of Clifton and East Cottage sts., Roxbury.

James Kelly, 25, of Roxbury et., Roxbury, operator of the truck, was proceeding along Clifton st. when a machine operated by Everett Goodwin of Walnut st., Needham, came out of East Cottage st., according to police.

The truck sideswiped the auto and turned upside down, sending milk from smashed bottles cascading over the pavement.

Kelly was taken to City Hospital where he was treated for abrasions and lacerations.

Davis Is Given Corrections Job

Appointment of Martin F. Davis as deputy commissioner of corrections and two other nominations were submitted to the executive council for confirmation today by Gov. Saltonstall.

He will replace Walter S. Ryan who resigned after appearing as an important witness at the recent Senate impeachment trial of Counselor Daniel H. Coakley.

Davis' salary will start at $3600 a year with a maximum at $4300. George E. Dalrymple, former Haverhill mayor, was reappointed to the $30-a-day-for-each-day-served job on the state emergency finance board. The job carries a provision limiting total wages to $3000 a year; and Garrett J. Barry, of Boston, to be a public administrator.

Meanwhile the council confirmed all of the Governor's appointments of last week. They included:

Thomas F. Finigan of Belmont, reappointed to his $7000-a-year post on the State Appellate Tax Board; Gregory W. Grover of Canton, as special justice of the Southern Norfolk district court, and Joseph J. Donahue as a member of the State Civil Service Commission.

Also Julius H. Sobie of Boston, reappointed master in chancery; former Mayor John Beck of Chelsea, appointed a member of the Chelsea board of excise, and Michael Marron of Cavern, Elre, reappointed commissioner of deeds for Massachusetts residents in Cavern.

ORDER CURBING GASOLINE SALES TO BE ISSUED SOON

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Curtailling of gasoline consumption in the East by compulsory restrictions apparently awaits only the drawing of formal orders.

Babbling Tongue Starts Run on Gasoline Stations

"A babbling tongue may start a run."

Something like that seems to be the only explanation for the gasoline buying wave which swept through Needham today after Wellesley station attendants reported tremendous sales increases, apparently due to unfounded rumors of immediate gasoline rationing.

The wild story seems to have started at the Wellesley town meeting last night. Nobody knew just who passed on the "inside dope" but officials were agreed today that rationing probably was "at least a week away."

Petroleum Co-ordinator Tokes was understood today to have to come to a decision that a restrictive program is necessary. Oil quarters said he probably would draw up the curtailment plan and the order would come through the War Production Board which has broad emergency powers over civilian supplies.

Oil sources indicated the first restrictions would cut gasoline supplies to filling stations 15 to 25 per cent, and institute a nationwide 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. curfew for the stations, a program employed in the East to cut consumption last summer and fall.

Rigid coupon book rationing may come later.

2 Ex-Convicts, Dancer Held in Hotel Killing

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Two ex-convicts and a dancer were charged today with the strangulation-slaying of wealthy Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, Polish refugee.

They were booked as John D. Culson, Eli Shonbrun and Madeleine Webb, and charged with homicide and "acting in concert in the homicidal death" of Mrs. Reich, whose body was found last Thursday in an East Side hotel where she had gone for luncheon.

Shonbrun, 35, and Miss Webb, 28, were taken into custody in a Bronx rooming house. Police said they found the stone from Mrs. Reich's $1500 diamond ring under the former showgirl's pillow.

Miss Webb, who with Shonbrun had been registered at the Hotel Sutton as "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold" had been friendly with Mrs. Reich for two years and had invited her to luncheon on the day of the slaying.

Mrs. Reich was the wife of Max Reich, New Jersey wax manufacturer.

Demands Public Hearing In Row Over Schoolboy

Charging that, at the closed school committee hearing, the stage had been "set for what had all the aspects of a criminal trial," Atty. Albert West today demanded a full public hearing in the case of 10-year-old Henry Cataldo, Jr., of Roslindale.

The committee agreed unanimously against returning the boy to the Philbrick School in Roslindale, from a disciplinary school to which he had been transferred as unruly.

"This classic of school department routine and inertia and swivel chair pedagogy," said West in a statement today, "threatens the whole educational future of a young child."

"The committee, in an effort to protect its own, has attempted to gloss over this matter by passing the responsibility on to the principal of the disciplinary school. To what extent the present feud going on between certain members of the committee has influenced this action is not known, but it is certain that we will not allow this situation, involving a child, to become a political football."

Atty. West, in his letter to the school committee, pointed out that young Cataldo of Mount Hope st., was sent to the disciplinary school "because of an accident to another boy."

Yet the school physician who examined the other boy was not called to testify before the school committee, West asserted, and he now wants the physician to appear and also wants an opportunity to produce witnesses and newly found evidence.

ALL SUGAR REGISTRATION AT SAME TIME

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)

The War Production Board said today it had tentatively decided that approximately 12,000 big and little industrial users of sugar would register for monthly supplies at the same time that household users are registering for sugar rationing.

The WPE and Office of Price Administration reached the agreement after it had previously been decided to register industrial users prior to the householders registration.

Another government agency will register the industrial users, under WPE direction, while school teachers are expected to register the householders under OPA instruction. Definite dates have not been fixed, but it was indicated they might be during the last week of March or the first week of April.

Brain Given New Muscle To Overcome Paralysis

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

ATLANTA, March 11 (AP)—A new operation to give the brain a muscle and overcome some cases of paralysis was described today before the Southeastern Surgical Congress.

The muscle does not act in a push-and-pull effort but instead as a pipeline to carry blood to injured parts of the brain which control the movements of the arms and legs. Dr. Frederick E. Kredel of the Medical College of South Carolina, declared.

The operation to date has been performed on only five partially paralyzed persons. The results, Dr. Kredel declared, have been "quite successful" in enabling them to walk and talk again.

All those operated on had partial or total paralysis of the body due to hardening of the arteries of the brain or blood clots in the brain. No attempt has been made to perform it on persons with brain tumors or brain cancer.

The operation is a delicate one. Because the brain itself is insensitive to pain it can be done with merely local anesthesia of the scalp. The skull is opened up from just above the ear to a point near the top of the head and from just back of the forehead to near the vertical midline, making a "window" to the brain.

The temporal muscle, which ties onto the skull and attaches to the lower jawbone to help in chewing, is peeled away from the bone before the skull is opened and is left hanging. When the brain is exposed, and the area cleaned if necessary, the muscle is carefully attached by fine sutures to the dura, or outer covering of the brain.

Enough room for the muscle to go through the skull is made by sawing out a small section at the bottom of the window. Then the skull cap is replaced, tied in and the scalp is stitched over it.

The apparent effect, Dr. Kredel declared, is that the muscle, which is fed by a large artery, attaches itself directly to the brain, the tiny blood vessels between the two automatically connecting themselves to provide a new source of blood to areas which have been cut off by brain clots or a diminished supply of blood due to hardening of the arteries.

Migrant Labor Camps in N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 11 (AP)

Selection of Wayne and Niagara counties for mobile migratory farm labor camps designed to relieve an acute farm labor shortage in New York was announced today by the Farm Security Administration.

Three other camps for the state will be chosen by the end of April to serve Suffolk and Nassau counties, Orleans and Genesee, Chautauque and Erie.

The first camp, the FSA said, will be opened June 15. Others will follow on Aug. 2, 12, 15 and 22. All will operate until Oct. 15.

The camps are among 18 which will travel the Eastern seaboard from Florida to Connecticut this year, channeling the flow of migrant labor to areas where crops are menaced by labor shortages. Each camp will consist of 150 tents sheltering up to 600 workers.

CHILDREN URGE DAD TO ADMIT KILLING WIFE

ROCKFORD, Ill., March 11 (AP)—Horace Turner put the question of his confession up to a jury of five of his seven children, a prosecutor said, and after each had assented, the father declared:

"I killed your mother because she didn't deserve to live."

The dramatic scene was enacted last night in the Winnebago County Building. State's Attorney Max A. Weston reported. Turner, 31, insisted upon seeing the children, ranging in age from 8 to 15 years. When they were brought before him, he said, according to Weston:

"I want to tell you I did it. I also want to ask you if I should tell all. If I do I'll go to jail. Or I can keep saying I didn't do it and make it hard for the police. What do you want me to do?"

"Tell the truth, Daddy," they agreed.

Thereupon, the prosecutor said, Turner related that Sunday night he went to a rooming house where his estranged wife lived and fired a shotgun blast through a window, killing her as she sat listening to her husband's son strum a guitar.

The children were Turner's by a previous marriage. His wife had three children by a former husband. They had been married nearly eight years, Weston said, but had been estranged since Jan. 30. Weston said he would seek a murder warrant against Turner.

Chef Is Held In Cafe Killing

Charged with first degree murder of a fellow worker during an argument over whether a boiled dinner should be on the menu, Charles Joseph, 36, of Chandler st., South End, a chef in an East Cambridge cafe, today was held without bail for hearing in East Cambridge district court March 18.

Police charged that Joseph, father of three children, struck and killed Alonzo DeMora, 38, constable, when the latter became angry after he was told there would be no boiled dinner.

Joseph is said to have hit DeMora with a club.

DeMora was knocked unconscious but was revived. He returned to work but in mid-afternoon collapsed and died as he was being taken into Cambridge City Hospital.

Joseph was found at his South End home and placed under arrest after questioning by Patrolman Joseph McCarthy. The victim was single and lived in Dartmouth st.

CEILING PRICES ON USED TIRES AND TUBES SET

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—The government has answered widespread complaints of price gouging with an order setting a ceiling on prices of used tires and tubes on the basis of prices prevailing between Oct. 1 and Oct. 15.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the ceiling was intended to maintain reasonable prices in "the only remaining market for tires and tubes open to the ordinary citizen who cannot satisfy rationing regulation requirements for purchase of new or retreaded tires."

Passenger car tires are divided into these four categories, based on the amount of wear visible:

- 1—Tires which retain 7-32s of an inch or more of tread design depth.
- 2—Tires retaining more than 3-32s of an inch but less than 7-32s of an inch of tread design depth.
- 3—Tires that have been regrooved or which retain 3-32s of an inch or less of tread design depth.
- 4—Tires worn smooth but usable as carcasses for retreading or recapping.

Under this system the following sample prices for four-ply passenger car tires of size 6-00-16 are set forth: Class 1, $8.10; Class 2, $6.55; Class 3, $4.45; Class 4, $1.50. The new tire price for this size is $14.75. The price for fourth class used tires of all sizes is $1.50.

The maximum passenger car tube price is $1.50 for all sizes. Truck tube prices range from $2 to $14.

Henderson urged that buyers insist upon the dealer measuring the depth of the tread design.

10 Blackout to Reach 3,000,000 in State

Before April 1, a total of 3,000,000 men, women and children of Massachusetts will have had their first taste of a wartime blackout, in regions from Cape Cod to the Berkshires. The blackout areas include about three quarters of the State's total population.

So it was disclosed today as the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety speeded plans for the series of community air raid tests—including 56 which are scheduled to night.

Announcement came after the big Quincy blackout of even that city's key defense plants and recording of the first Bay State fatality due to a blackout.

The victim was James Pecararo, 74, of Cedar st., Norwood, one of 20 other towns besides Quincy to go black. Making his way about his darkened home, Pecararo fell downstairs two minutes before lights were scheduled to go on again.

OPERATE IN BLACKOUT

He was pronounced dead of a fractured skull by Dr. James O'Toole, who performed an emergency appendix operation during the blackout at Norwood Hospital on Alonzo Blais, 15, of Washington st., Norwood. The youth arrived at the hospital just as the lights were about to go out and the operation was completed under screened lighting.

At Randolph, Mrs. Marion F. Gardner, 49, of Mill st., was stricken with a heart attack and died just as the blackout test signals began to sound. An American Legion ambulance sped to her home but she was pronounced dead by Dr. William Sioane.

WAR PLANTS DARK

Quincy's blackout from 9:15 to 9:30, pronounced most successful by Mayor Thomas F. Burgin, was shared by the great Fore River shipbuilding plant and other defense industries. In the final five minutes they threw a shield of darkness about them.

The blackout of Quincy attracted most attention for defense authorities, not only because it contains many defense plants but because it is on the great artery of travel to the South Shore. Mayor Burgin, who witnessed the Boston blackout, said Quincy's was second to none that he had seen.

The only incident there was when two air raid wardens found lights burning in two private garages in Wollaston and unable to find the owners, put them out with night sticks.

20 OTHER TOWNS

Other blackouts were held in Milton, Dedham, Needham, Dover, Holbrook, Weymouth, Randolph, Athol, Petersham, Orange, New Salem, Warwick, Wendell, Hull, Leicester, Berlin, Brookfield, Braintree, Cohasset and Melrose.

Medford will have a blackout tonight from 9:30 to 9:50: Everett, Chelsea and Revere will have a simultaneous blackout March 18 while Somerville will blackout March 19.

Civilian defense authorities are concentrating now on the biggest blackout ever staged in the east, that of 62 cities and towns of the Berkshires, centering about Springfield, on March 23.

3 to Face Court

In Blackout Cases

Reverberations from the Cambridge blackout of a week ago came today in district court at East Cambridge when summons were sent out against three Cambridge cafes and their proprietors for alleged failure to observe the blackout rules.

Under the emergency laws, the penalties fixed for such violations, upon conviction, are a fine of not more than $500, imprisonment for not more than a year, or both.

All three summonses were sent to proprietors who allegedly refused to extinguish lights that could be seen from outside during the blackout.

Named in the complaints are Theoharis Chehames, manager of the University Lunch, Inc., 23 Pearl st.; Harcourt Borzakian, proprietor of a cafe in the 2000-block of Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge; and John McAuliffe, proprietor of the Wonder Bar Cafe, Inc., in the same block.

All are summoned into East Cambridge Court on March 18.

FR. COUGHLIN'S LEAGUE FUNDS REVEALED

DETROIT, March 11 (INS)—The Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin's Radio League of the Little Flower took in more than a half million dollars in one year, it was revealed by testimony in an Unemployment Compensation Commission hearing, the Detroit Times said today.

The hearing, before Referee Henry Gleiman, resulted from an appeal by the league of a commission ruling that it was not "a charitable and religious institution" and therefore owes payroll taxes for the years since 1936, the story said. It added that refusal to pay these taxes has resulted in several of the league's employees being refused unemployment benefits, in recent years, during which employees have been reduced in number from 30 to 7.

The hearing is in adjournment while Miss Alberta Ward, bookkeeper for the league, refreshes her memory on several items listed as expenditures, the story said, and among them are $44,865 for purchase of real estate she could not identify and loans of $254.85 and $508.2 to Fr. Coughlin.

For the first time, the story said, it is believed the hearing revealed the income from Fr. Coughlin's radio talks. By years, the income was:

1937—$404,469.98 1938—$102,234.92
1938—$574,416.66 1940—$82,263.55

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—A State Supreme Court jury ruled 10 to 2 today that Prescott Van Wyck,

Acid Indigestion

What many doctors don't tell you is that acid indigestion is not a disease, it's a condition. It's caused by the food that you eat. The food that you eat is broken down by the stomach. The stomach produces the acid that is necessary for the food to be broken down. If the stomach produces too much acid, it causes acid indigestion. The symptoms of acid indigestion are heartburn, sour stomach, and a feeling of fullness. The best way to get rid of acid indigestion is to eat a diet that is low in acid. You should eat more fruits and vegetables and less meat and dairy products. You should also eat smaller meals more often. If you are still having trouble, you should see a doctor.

HAPPINESS WILLED WIDOW IF SHE REWEDS

In a will of unusual modesty, the late William T. Wellner of Winchester st., Brookline, wished his wife every happiness should she remarry and asked a most inexpensive funeral to befit his "un-successes in life."

The will, which was filed in Dedham Probate Court, bequeathed $1 to each of his five children and the residue to his widow. He also gave assent to having his family drop the name of Wellner in the event of his widow's remarriage, if they so chose.

"Not being satisfied with my successes in life, I have no desire to be retained in memory, to which end I suggest an inexpensive and unpretentious funeral. When my wife remarries, if my family desires to drop my family name of Wellner for reasons my wife can explain, it's up to them. And by so doing it furthers my desire to be the sooner forgotten."

In the will, Wellner pays tribute to his wife and wishes happiness to her and his children.

"In the hope of meeting my good wife and children in the life hereafter," the will reads, "and if my wife marries, I hope she will be as happy as we have been and God's blessing goes with you all."

"In departing this life, my greatest hope is that my wife, Belle, may have full realization of my sincere love for her, and how I have appreciated her noble attitude in standing firm by me in sickness and health and throughout the financial worries caused by my poor judgment." The widow, Mrs. Belle Wellner, is made executor of the will, which was drawn March 22, 1932. Wellner died last Feb. 6.

John W. Beal Quits State Traffic Job

John W. Beal, former state traffic commissioner, today resigned his position in connection with the probe of Cambridge municipal affairs, today resigned his post as a member of the special legislative traffic study commission.

Gov. Saltonstall immediately named Mayor William A. Bennett of Worcester to the commission.

Beal, in his letter of resignation said "the ruthless publicity" made it seem proper for him to offer his resignation.

He reiterated his innocence in the alleged bribery conspiracy and said the grand jury's action in indicting him "was a complete surprise."

Beal was indicted, with his brother Horatio W. of Park dr. Fenway, with conspiracy to give and promise bribes, and John W. Beal also was indicted on a charge of bribery and perjury.

He was appointed to the traffic board by Saltonstall.

Put Strikers On Alaska Road Job, Says Lear

CLEVELAND, March 11 (AP)—Those who won't work aren't good enough to serve in the Army, Lieut.-Gen. Ben Lear declared today.

"I do not appreciate—nor does any soldier—the remarks we sometimes read when there is a strike: 'Make them work or fight,'" the second Army's commander said.

The individual who is unwilling to work we don't want picked up and sent to us to join combat troops. He isn't good enough. Let such men be given the job of building the highway to Alaska, of being put to work in Labrador, in Greenland.

"Draft them, yes; but our society of men being trained to fight and die for this Republic is not a reform school."

and six passengers were still missing. There were 26 survivors.

78 Missing as Subs Sink 2 Ships Off U. S.

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Ever bolder and swifter in their attacks, Axis submarines have sunk two ships in nearby waters in as many days.

In the latest and most brazen approach to the east coast since the United States entered the war, an enemy submersible with one well-aimed torpedo split in half the 676-ton Gulf Oil tanker Gulftrade early yesterday less than four miles off Barnegat, N. J.

Some time earlier, between 7 and 7:30 p. m. Sunday, either the same raider or another with an aim almost as good blew asunder the 5152-ton Brazilian cargo-passenger vessel Cayru about 130 miles off Ambrose lightship, beacon for New York harbor.

The two sinkings, Nos. 28 and 29 on the officially announced list of ships sent to the bottom off the U. S. east coast, apparently resulted in heavy loss of life, with a total of 78 still missing.

Sixteen of the 35-man crew of the Gulftrade were picked up by Coast Guard boats and landed safely at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, while 22 of 75 seamen and four of 10 passengers were rescued from the Cayru.

The captain of the Gulftrade, Torger Olsen of Port Arthur, Tex., said his ship was struck a few minutes after he had ordered the running lights put on "in order to avoid a collision with two ships ahead of us."

U. S. Destroyers Sink Sub Attacking Tankers

HAVANA, March 11 (INS)—United States destroyers were reported today to have sunk one of three Axis submarines which attacked five tankers off the eastern tip of Cuba, sinking at least one of the vessels and damaging the other.

All of the reports, however, were modified and not confirmed although they apparently came from well-informed sources. The latest reports said that at 6:15 a. m. Monday, two tankers, including one 1100-ton ship and an other large tanker mounting a cannon, were attacked by three submarines off Cape May.

The submarines were said to have continued the attack for about two hours, shelling the vessels and firing torpedoes. One badly damaged tanker, riddled with shells and flying the Panamanian flag, entered Guantanamo bay Monday night with 30 wounded men, three of whom died in a hospital.

Thirty-nine members of the crew of the tanker Hanset of Panama (registry), which was torpedoed, shelled and sunk, were rescued by the Cuban schooner Corsario and taken to Bahia. Three were wounded, according to latest reports. All 39 are scheduled to reach Havana Friday or Saturday and immigration officials are preparing to aid them.

Meanwhile, the Haitian radio was heard announcing that 50 men, including an unspecified number of wounded, and the bodies of 12 dead reached Haitian shores from the attacked tankers.

9 More Survivors Landed in Canada

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 11 (AP)—Nine survivors of a ship torpedoed in the western Atlantic have been landed here by a British patrol boat after drifting 16 hours in a lifeboat.

They said all their shipmates escaped in two other lifeboats, and that there was a good chance they had been picked up by another vessel.

One seaman said the torpedo exploded with such force that he saw "hatches, ballast stone, and huge pieces of iron blown to the sky. The torpedo must have gone right through the ship."

YOU MAY HAVE HEARD IT SAID that for a hungry person nothing in the world hits the spot in quite such satisfactory fashion as a plateful of good old fashioned Boston Baked Beans.

• You know how it is! Noon or evening mealtime approaches and you suddenly realize that for the past hour or more a real husky appetite has been clamoring within you. And you know that yours is not the dainty kind, that "tea and toast" will never do! What you do want is something downright substantial, for no mistake about it . . . you're hungry!

• So you walk up the street, your emptiness growing worse by the minute.

• And then you come to one of those handy Waldorf Cafeterias, and you have a sudden inspiration. "Ah . . . ha," you say to yourself . . . "I know! Baked Beans . . . either plain, with sausage or hamburger patty, or with corned beef hash. That's the stuff that will do a job on this appetite of mine!"

• So you pass through the doors, knowing full well that Waldorf's brick-oven baked beans are always baked just as you like them . . . rich in flavor, satisfying to the inner man.

U. S. Troops Still Fighting in Java

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 11 (AP)—Hubertus J. Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Dutch East Indies, declared today that about 5000 Australian troops probably still were fighting in the mountain country east and west of Bandung, Japanese-occupied half-way capital of Java.

Roosevelt Gives Congress Report on Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed Congress today in a message analyzing the first year's operations of the lend-lease program that the offensive the United Nations "must and will drive into the heart of the Axis" would take "the entire strength that we possess."

"The war can only be won by contact with the enemies, and by attack upon them," he asserted in a letter transmitting the lend-lease report. "That takes time, for the United Nations need more and still more equipment and transportation. Success will come

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (AP)—One of the gentlemen who help make the chassis of movieband lovelies among the best draped in the world today offered encouragement to women worrying as a result of the war production board's freezing of the existing silhouette in women's clothes.

"It's not the silhouette that matters anyway," declared Designer Milo Anderson. "It's what we do with it.

"Suits, for instance, are the backbone of every woman's present wardrobe. Yet, even though they all have softly rounded shoulders, casually cut jackets and easy fitting skirts, they show plenty of variety. Only unnecessary trimmings such as over-size pockets and voluminous sleeves will go."

N. E. Beaches Will Escape Ful Blackout

New England will be spared a permanent "beach blackout" this summer, Maj. Gen. Sheiman Miles, commander of the First Corps Area, stated today while admitting that a full-scale blackout in other defense forces to eliminate unnecessary shore illumination in compliance with the request made by Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Eastern Army Forces.

"Unless conditions radically change," Gen. Miles declared, "it is hoped that movement tonight may function normally, and those who have beach cottages may be able to follow their usual summer vacation routine without undue interference."

He said that elimination of shore lights should not materially disrupt the normal civilian beach resort activity.

The question of the elimination of shore lights for the protection of coast-line shipping is a matter now being studied; but no decision has been reached as to the location of lights which may have to be eliminated," Miles stated.

Gen. Drum's request, which was made to all Atlantic Coast governors through the corps area commanders, asked the co-operation of local civilian defense units to black out lights along the shores which might serve to silhouette passing vessels.

Recently ships have been torpedoed off the Eastern coast only a few miles from shore.

dearly, at the price of defeats and losses."

Mr. Roosevelt said lend-lease was a prime mechanism through which the United Nations were pooling their entire resources.

The report, covering operations since the original lend-lease law was signed a year ago today, showed that the total value of aid was $2,570,452,441.

This aid includes not only military items such as guns, tanks and planes, but also raw materials, machinery, food, ships, expansion of production facilities and services.

classes, races and creeds in India of our sincere resolve, the war cabinet have agreed unitedly upon conclusions for present and future action which, if accepted by India as a whole, would avoid the alternative dangers: Either that resistance of a powerful minority might impose an indefinite veto upon the wishes of the majority, or that a majority decision might be taken which would be resisted to a point destructive of internal harmony and fatal to the setting up of a new constitution.

SEEK JUST SOLUTION

"We had thought of setting forth immediately the terms of this attempt of a strong contribution to aid India in the realization of full self-government. We are, however, apprehensive that to make a public announcement at such a moment as this might do more harm than good.

"We must first assure ourselves that our scheme would win a reasonable and practical measure of acceptance, and thus promote the concentration of all Indian thought and energies upon the defense of the native soil.

"We should still serve the common cause if we made a declaration which would be rejected by essential elements in the Indian world and which would provoke fierce communal disputes at the moment when the enemy is at the gates of India.

"We propose to send a member of the War Cabinet to India to satisfy himself upon the spot by personal consultation that the conclusions upon which we are agreed and which we believe represent a just and final solution will achieve their purpose.

He carries with him the full confidence of the government and he has in their name to procure the necessary measure of assent, not only from the Hindu majority but also from those great minorities among which the Moslems are the most numerous and on many grounds pre-eminent.

"The Lord Privy Seal will at the same time consult with the viceroy and commander-in-chief upon the military situation, bearing always in mind the paramount responsibility of His Majesty's government by every means in their power to shield the people of India from the perils which beset them.

"We must remember that India has a great party to play in the world struggle for freedom and that her help must be extended in loyal comradeship to follow the Chinese people who have fought alone."

"We must remember also that India is one of the bases from which the strongest counter-blows must be struck at the advance of tyranny and aggression.

CHEERS FOR CRIPPS

ambitions. Its little army of sword-bearers was merely an eager and ignorant rabble. But they wanted to learn. So in 1883 the Mikado invited Berlin to send a military mission under Maj. Meckel, a disciple of Von Moltke, to reorganize and train his troops in modern method.

Smelling the prospect of trade concessions, Bismarck gladly agreed and dispatched his schoolmasters at once. They did a thorough job, so thorough that ten years later Japan found itself sufficiently graduated in the lethal arts to launch itself in the war business. It took on China, by treachery, and won a decision. In another ten years it was ready for Russia, again employing treachery, and again winning. Ninety-two years after Perry opened its ports it was ready to take on the world.

Apt Pupil

Tomoyuki Yamashita was dedicated to the game of war from childhood. Apprenticed to the junior military schools and progressing through the cadet academies, he proved an apt pupil and rose rapidly in rank until he became a staff officer shortly before World War I.

As a promising junior officer with recognized aptitude in the sciences of mayhem, he was detailed to Germany to gather polish and, before being called back to take part in a sly assault on Germany's Asiatic possessions, he became indoctrinated with a feverish love of German militarism. Still, in the skirmishes that occurred between Japan and German troops in the Far East, his devotion to German methods didn't restrain him from fighting against his schoolmasters. He graduated from Tokyo's staff college in 1916, having among his classmates Hoshita Oshima, Japan's current ambassador to Berlin, and Hideki Tojo, the present Japanese premier, all of whom entered into the fraternal clique of young officers which was to frame the future of their country with flame and sword.

After the first World War, Japan was prompt to make itself solid with its late German enemy, whither Yamashita was sent as a military observer, later becoming attache at Vienna and a student in Poland. It was the precursor of ten mighty martial years in which the ever inquisitive Yamashita soaked up army lore like an oyster sucks up sludge.

Expansion Begins

Japan meanwhile was plodding smartly up the road to destiny—first seizing Manchuria, then spilling over into China and moving like moisture on a vast blotter around the edges of the China sea, with inflated little eyes twinkling greedily at material-rich territories of the Dutch and British.

Yamashita was in his glory now. As commander in North China he fought against guerrillas in the arid mountain region of Shansi, a campaign that was to prove a liberal education for his later battles in Malaya.

Always inquisitive, energetic and resourceful, Yamashita had made a profound side study of aviation as a war arm, and was casting his ambitious mind ahead for later opportunity. It came when a German mission under the late Ernst Udet reported that Japan's airforce was technically inefficient and badly directed. Yamashita was given the job of reorganization. With a staff of forty officers he went to Berlin in January of 1930, staying there almost six months, meeting Hitler's air-minded bigwigs, and watching the aerial fighting over France at close range.

On London Raids

It was said that he even accompanied several raids over London as an aerial observer. Finally, his mission ended, he returned to Tokyo with 250 German aviation technicians and began the gigantic task of forming a new sky force. How well he worked is indicated by the Jap's subsequent successes over the Indies and Malaya.

Actually he taught his master a few tricks. For he took the torpedo bomber, generally discredited by the Western world, and made it into a savagely effective weapon. Later with the coming of the Jap attack on the United Nations, Yamashita was detailed to a major role with the land forces. The rest of his history is an open book. Now, as chief trouble shooter, he has been dispatched to Luzon with the knotty problem of cleaning up the thus far unsolvable puzzle of MacArthur.

Whether Yamashita can accomplish what General Hoenma failed to do in three months of all-out effort, is a question which time and fate will decide.

JEFFRIES CLUB BOYS MAKING MODEL PLANES

Thirty-five members of the Jeffries Point Boys' Club, 120 Marginal st., East Boston, who are enrolling in the Junior Victory Army, have put their shoulders to the wheel to answer the Navy's call for 500,000 model planes to help train war fliers.

The 35 members are divided into two classes, two of which meet in the afternoon, and two in the evening. Joseph Linton, Carmen Macaris and Arthur Nyberg, who have long model plane-making experience, are serving as instructors, according to Angelo Musto, Jr., assistant director of the organization. Using plans and specifications of models recently published in the Evening American and the Daily Record, the boys have already completed eight or nine craft.

Five drawings were printed, consisting of the Curtiss P-40E, U. S. Army Fighter; the Brewster F2A-3, U. S. Navy Fighter; Mitsubishi-96, a Jap Navy Bomber; the Heinkel HE 111, a German Bomber, and the Vought-Sikorsky OS2U-1, a U. S. Navy Observation Scout.

NAVY NEEDS MODELS

The Navy needs 10,000 each of 30 different types of miniature aircraft to train aviation cadets in type, range, identification and target practice.

The sponsoring agent is the U. S. Board of Education which has set the Massachusetts number at 18,000 under the direction of M. Norcross Stratton, assistant state director of vocational education.

The Boston quota is 7500 models, to be built under the supervision of Edward C. Emerson, director of manual arts in the public schools and a sponsoring committee.

All model makers to the Junior Victory Army are eligible to compete but if they are not in local high schools they must submit their models through boys' organizations.

AWARD CERTIFICATE

Model builders whose craft are accepted will receive certificates signed by Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, U. S. Navy. These certificates will give honorary rank of aircraftman first class in seven grades from cadet aircraftman to captain aircraftman.

The lowest grade will be awarded to the builder who has one model accepted. To obtain the highest grade the model maker must provide 10 accepted models. These must consist of different types and represent the plane of five nations.

High degree of accuracy in scale and proportion will be required in the model work project. See Picture on Page 19

Lone Malden Bandit Gets $140

While 25 patrons were eating breakfast, a lone bandit escaped with $140 today from the Converse Restaurant, Main st., Malden, after imprisoning Frank O'Neil, night manager, in the office.

O'Neil told police he was preparing to take the night receipts to a bank, when the bandit entered and told him:

"Faul sent me for the money."

Faul was identified as the former night manager, who had been discharged.

As he turned to report to O'Neil, the bandit drew a revolver, ordered him to sit down in front of a safe, tied his hands and closed the top against his hands. The bandit then walked through the restaurant with the money in a paper bag.

Millions Use New Tax Blank

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—With the income tax deadline only five days off, hundreds of thousands of small taxpayers today forego the mysteries of complicated returns and signed up on the Treasury's new simplified income tax blank. By Monday night, the total of simple returns filed may reach 5,000,000.

The simple form can be used by anyone whose gross income was not more than $3,000 and was derived from salaries, wages, dividends, interest, rent, annuities or royalties.

Radio Blackout On West Coast

LOS ANGELES, March 11 (AP)—A 57-minute radio blackout in three Southern California counties was lifted at 7 a. m. (10 a. m. Eastern War Time) today, but the fourth interceptor command declined any comment.

A "blue" alert, mobilizing air raid wardens and silencing ranges was ordered here and in Orange and Ventura counties at 6:03 a. m. At the same time, San Diego was given a preliminary, or "yellow" alert.

It was the first radio silencing since the entire metropolitan area was blacked out as anti-aircraft guns fired for a half-hour Feb. 25.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Brushing is fetish with Dorothy Morris . . . who never stints on the hundred strokes! Arline Gould says that if you have trouble with dull-looking hair and brassy ends . . . you can transform it instantly into a gleaming ripple, with silken ringlets, by using a unique cream called a "make-up" for the hair, it's that prompt and effective a beautifier.

'MAKE-UP' CREAM MAKES HAIR SILKEN, FEATHERY

By ARLINE GOULD

WHAT YOUR LIPSTICK is to the nicest makeup you put on when it's admiration you're after . . . that's what a unique creamy substance is to your poor, winter-fagged hair . . . for it's called a "makeup" for the hair!

Actually, it's purpose and accomplishment is a good deal more serious than "makeup" . . . for it is a corrective cream to make brittle-dry hair ends silken and feathery . . . but the instant beauty it gives the dulled looking head of hair has earned it the more frivolous sub-title.

You think of most hair softeners as being greasy . . . which is a natural thing, because they all contain oil in its greasiest state . . . but not this creamy substance, for it polishes and softens hair ends without making them greasy . . . so the hair strands don't stick together . . . and they are even fluffier than they were before.

It goes without saying that the cream is fragrant . . . in a pleasant and inconspicuous way, so you may go right on spraying your favorite perfume or cologne, but lightly, around your temples and hairline.

The quickest way to apply the cream is to rub a little on the palms of the hands and pass them over the whole head, with special emphasis on ends. It deepens your wave gloriously. You'll always have your tube on hand when you go to the hairdresser, because it should be used when your hair is set . . . as well as in between times. If brassy ends are a hazard to your permanent, use the cream consistently before your permanent. It'll eliminate that cracking and snapping off of ends.

Most girls who like their curls to be beautifully glossy and feathery apply the cream with a special little curl-brush designed by the hair specialists who sponsor this "makeup" for the hair.

To learn about this remarkable cream, phone Arline Gould, LIBERTY 4800, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A WELL-BALANCED DIET should contain at least three servings of vegetables daily. One may be potatoes, and one should be raw. If you can serve more than this, so much the better. As a group, vegetables are a valuable source of many of the vitamins and minerals we must have for good health.

Interesting combinations of color, flavor and texture may be obtained by using two or more vegetables together. This is an easy way to use left-over cooked vegetables, but so often a mixture of raw vegetables may be more easily cooked and served together. Unless the vegetables chosen cook in the same way and in approximately the same time, cook them separately, and reheat together at the time serving. Freshly cooked vegetables are always the best, because left-over ones lose much of their precious food value when they have stood for any length of time.

Facinated vegetables afford an endless variety of taste pleasing flavor combinations that few people realize. For instance, potatoes and pearl onion-shallots will seasoned with plenty of butter, salt and a little pepper, gives a savory dish that will tempt you to try other combinations equally as good.

ESCALOPED POTATOES AND ONIONS

- 6 medium-sized potatoes
- 4 tbsp. butter
- 2 tbsp. flour
- 1 tsp. salt
- 8 to 12 pearl onions (depending upon size)
- 2 cups milk

ESCALOPED POTATOES AND ONIONS.

with a paring knife. Butter escalop well. Place layer of potatoes on bottom of casserole, sprinkle with one tablespoon flour, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, and dot with some of the butter. Cover with layer of onions and repeat until potatoes and onions and the seasonings are used. Pour the scalded milk over the top and dot with remaining butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 40 minutes, or until potatoes and onions are tender. Makes 6 servings.

For more festive occasions than the every day family meals you might like to use fancy vegetable cutters and vary the shape of the pieces. A buffet table should include at least one hot dish and a casserole of waffle-cut potatoes and pearl onions is sure to hit the spot.

Potatoes and celery, potatoes and carrots, green beans and onions or corn and green pepper are just a few of the delicious vegetable dishes you will want to try. They offer variety without adding much milk in the diet and getting vegetables eaten by those who are "vegetalophobic."

Vegetable condiments are also used with only a seasoning of salt, pepper and melted butter; they may be served as shortcakes, up-side-down cakes, souffles, etc.

VEGETABLE SHORTCAKES

Serve creamed vegetables between halves and over tops of 6 buttered, hot baking powder biscuits or squares of hot cornbread. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

UPSIDE-DOWN VEGETABLE CAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 can milk
- 4 cups mixed vegetables (carrots, peas, celery lima beans)
- 1 cup vegetable stock
- 2 tbsp. butter
- Mushroom sauce

Mix and sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk; add to dry ingredients, stirring until mixed. Arrange hot seasoned vegetables in bottom of greased shallow baking pan. Add vegetable stock, cover with batter and bake in hot oven (325 deg. F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Turn out on hot serving plate with vegetables on top and serve with mushroom sauce.

JUST LET ONE soft spring day arrive . . . and you'll find your mind a delightful jumble in which the thought of you in navy blue with white frills at the throat, tip-toeing through the Public Garden tulips, telescopes with you in pastel summer cottons or in the briefest of bathing suits running along a Cape dune. Blame it onto wool priorities (if you think blame is the word) but anyhow briefness will reign in beach styles. Neat, square trunks are a detail of this good-looking new two-piece number. "Submarine net" decorates the bra which has an inner uplift feature and almost no back, for maximum sun tan.—ANNICE BRINK.

RETURN OF DOBBIN BRINGS BACK RIDING CLOTHES STYLES

By BETTINA BEDWELL

HOUSES ARE coming back into style as automobiles get scarcer, and I notice that a lot of designers who formerly had nothing to do with riding clothes are now doing something about the matter. One really new and good idea is developed by Vera Maxwell, that is knitted trousers. Not a natural horse shoe shape, but they are highly flexible and comfortable, and they do look good on the screen.

Miss Maxwell has also developed a new riding jacket, which is a long, loose-fitting, buttoned jacket with a high collar and a wide belt. It is made of a soft, warm material, and it has a large pocket for a riding crop. The jacket is designed to be worn over a long-sleeved shirt and a pair of riding pants.

Good Manners Party Sandwich Problem

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am giving a dinner for ten people, and I had planned to serve small fancy sandwiches with cocktails before dinner. One of my friends told me that this is not the proper thing to do. What should I serve with the cocktails?

L. E.

Your friend is right about waiting against serving small fancy sandwiches with cocktails before dinner. It's fitting to serve such small sandwiches at a cocktail party, but serving them before dinner would do dire things to the appetite.

With the cocktails you may serve some simple canapés, or you may follow the custom of many small hostesses who do not serve canapés. If you prefer not to serve canapés, you may serve salted nuts, very simple crackers, and perhaps slivers of carrot and tiny hearts of celery. Many hostesses serve a bowl or platter of slivers of vegetables in crushed ice, with a small dish of salt in the center. You may have slivers of carrot, cauliflower-clusters, turnip, and celery. These crisp bits pique the appetite rather than deaden it.

Love And Marriage

Faces Grave Problem

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I find myself in a position from which I can see no escape. I am an unmarried girl and I'm going to have a baby. The child's father is married. He is poor and unable to do anything for me. I have next to nothing saved, though I have worked since I was fourteen years of age. But my family—mother, father, three sisters and a brother—have required much help out of my pay envelope, which has never been anything but small. My girl friend has begged me to write to you. It would be impossible for me to tell of my misfortune to my family.

FRIGHTENED.

While you have written me an extremely long letter, you have made it impossible for me to give you any practical advice by not confiding your real name or an address where an answer to your letter will reach you. There are a great many solutions to your problem, if you'll only keep your head and not let yourself be carried away by despair.

There are in these United States 59 Florence Crittenton Homes, where unwed mothers are received and well cared for. If necessary, they are taught a trade which will enable them to care for themselves and their babies. If they're white-collar girls they are given a chance to do office work while at the home. They keep their babies with them.

Write me your name and address, and I will send you the name of the home nearest you. No one is going to see your letter but myself.

The Masked Jury CASE OF IN-LAWS

WIFE WANTS OWN HOME

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I have been living with my in-laws for the past few years. My husband is the only child. Due to a misfortune of my father-in-law, we had to break up our lovely home and go live with them.

I have really found out that there is nothing like your own home and I'll never be happy until I get in a home of my own again. We have a daughter eight years old and since we are living here I don't seem to have control of her any longer.

About once a week I get moody and terribly depressed and many a time I have gone to my room and cried. My husband can't understand why I feel as I do.

My in-laws own their home. It is a six-room house with three bedrooms upstairs and a bath, and three rooms downstairs. They don't have any income; my father-in-law is 57, my mother-in-law 53. We pay all bills. Here is my problem:

People ask me why they don't rent out a couple of rooms or rent out the top floor and live on the first floor. We could then live by ourselves and give them as much as we can afford.

Do you think this would be the right thing to do?

HOW THE JURY VOTED

Women: Yes, six; No, none.
Men: Yes, four; No, two.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes. It is not as if they were forsaking the husband's parents. I think she should make her husband realize her own happiness is at stake.

CABINET MAKER: Yes. I think they should frankly discuss it with the in-laws and let this wife tell them how she feels about a home of her own.

RADIO ACTRESS: Yes. I think the husband and his parents are being a little selfish if they are aware of her feelings in the matter.

SEXTON: No. In these times they are better off together. It's expensive to keep up two homes.

DENTAL ASSISTANT: Yes. All married couples should have a home of their own, without in-laws.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes. All women want their own homes, just as the husband's mother wants hers. In times like these it is easy to rent rooms too.

TREE SURGEON: No. The husband probably cares a lot for his parents and she should try to get along with them.

KNITTER (woman): Yes. I don't see why his parents should maintain a home and deny her one.

BRICK MANUFACTURER: Yes. She ought to talk it over with her husband and his parents and work it out together.

SALESWOMAN: Yes. A wife should certainly have a right to bring up her child her own way and her husband should be made to realize it.

BUILDING INSPECTOR: Yes. The parents are still young enough to be able to help themselves more than they are.

Community Needs Come First

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Yesterday, in New York City, was a busy day spent almost entirely on personal things. I had an interesting talk with a young Korean woman, married to an American citizen, who has been promoting an organization among the women of her community which she thinks would be of value in many other communities.

Her hope was that I would head up this organization on a nation-wide basis, but I feel very strongly that everything that is done should originate in a community need and, therefore, should enlist the interest and activity of the people in a particular community.

National plans smack too much of something handed down from the top. Though I think it is well when something valuable is done in any community to have it given wide publicity so that other communities with the same needs may adopt it, I think it is a mistake to try to start any new national organizations at this time.

I was interested in an appeal which I received the other day. It was from one of the community organizations in my home state.

They explained that they felt benefits and large mass meetings should be the methods used to raise money for the extraordinary war activities. That the community organizations, both charitable and civic, should obtain their support simply by reminding their subscribers of the need in the community.

I think this theory is excellent and hope that we shall prove good enough citizens to put it into practice successfully.

I MEANT to find time to go to see an exhibition of paintings at the Grand Central Fifth avenue galleries in the Hotel Gotham yesterday, while in New York City. These are paintings of New England by Robert Strong Woodward.

Since I know so much of the countryside he paints, I looked forward with great pleasure to seeing them. Unfortunately, I did not get there and the exhibition closes on the 14th of March, and I can not be in New York City again until the 15th.

This is a real disappointment at I hope he will hold another exhibition somewhere else before long.

We came back to Washington

this morning by train in order to do as much work as possible on the way, and now I am about to keep a few appointments here.

If you do not subscribe to the Illinois Galesburg Post, you may want to do so. One of the best war columns I've read was in it, written by Carl Sandburg.

AS GAY as the first spring crocuses which will soon be popping up in front yard gardens along the avenue, are the series of spring luncheons which Mrs. Dorothy Whipple Fry and her daughters have given on successive March Mondays at their lovely old home in Brookline.

Both parties were Chinese in motif . . . with a centerpiece of Oriental flowers on the dining room table . . . a menu of Chow Mein and other Chinese delicacies, topped off with China tea and Chinese candies for dessert . . .

The guest list at the first party included a group of young married and post deb friends of Mrs. Robert Meyer, Mrs. Fry's eldest daughter . . . and this week's party embraced a large group of Mrs. Fry's own friends, including Mrs. Walter Van Kleeck, Mrs. Harold McNeil, Mrs. John Hudson, Mrs. Richard Walker, Mrs. Colby Hewitt, Mrs. Claude Cross, Mrs. Richard Shaw and Mrs. John Cochrane . . .

Also enjoying this spring get-together were Mrs. Sherman Whipple, Mrs. Lathrop Withington, Mrs. Walter Carl, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Robert Coe, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mrs. Charles Jenney, Mrs. Arthur Bubbins and Mrs. Russell Paris . . .

SOME OF THE PAST winter's most radiant brides have kissed their young husbands good-by and wished them bon voyage on trips to distant camps to report for military training . . . While her bridegroom is in service, the newlywed Mrs. Loring Coleman Jr. (Katinka Podmaniczky) is staying with her mother, Mrs. Guy Warren Walker . . .

AS POPULAR AS Dr. Eliot's famous five-foot shelf is the new Six-Foot Shelf at the Boston Seaman's Friend Society . . . but whereas the five-foot shelf serves to make men brainy, the new shelf at the Seaman's Friend aids in covering the brain of six-foot mariners . . .

The six-foot shelf is really a wardrobe closet which a group of Boston women volunteer workers hopes to keep well stocked with warm woolen clothing to outfit tall, brawny seamen who have been torpedoed or suddenly ordered to cold climates . . .

Responding to an urgent appeal for the cast off clothing of large men to outfit the merchant mariners, waves of six-footers have been contributing all sorts of warm, serviceable articles . . . Governor Saltonstall started the drive a day or so ago by contributing a sweater and pair of trousers from his own wardrobe.

Chaplain Thorpe has just completed the shelf and closet at the Seaman's Friend Center on Han-

Mrs. Maurice Tobin, N's Albert Tilcomb, Mrs. Wilfred Brehaut, Mrs. George Colket Caner, Mrs. Russell Gerould, Mrs. Edward P. Brown and Mrs. Warren Taylor, all wives of husky men, are helping with the project.

SMART SET OUT FOR FASHION SHOW 19

Sub-Deb Portrays Bride in Patriotic Color Garbed Wedding Party

Patriotic "Wedding"—Highlight of the gala spring fashion show at the Hotel Somerset, comes as a "wedding party" appears colorfully garbed, the color scheme red, white and blue. The bride (Eleanor Frothingham) wears a gown of white lace, with tulle veil falling from a lace cap . . . and carries sheaf of calla lilies and white orchids. Bridesmaids Barbara Keith and Nancy Joy Bernard (at left) and Barbara Ann Paine and Ann Phillips (at right) wear gowns with white lace bodices and full skirts of checked taffeta, two blue and white, two red and white. Maid of Honor (Peggy Hangarter) appears in chiffon gown combining the three colors while the "bride's mother" (Marjorie Burr) wears frock and hat of blue and white checked taffeta.

OUR DAILY CITATION:

To the Boston City Council for changing the name of Bismarck street, Jamaica Plain, and calling it General MacArthur street. This is a good start. Now let us all, City Council members included, call on the President, Senators and Congressmen to send ships to aid MacArthur. It is proper to honor an outstanding military leader with monuments. But it is a lot better and wiser to save his life with prompt action.

PRICE ADMINISTRATOR HENDERSON says no rubber will be available for normal use for at least three years, and that requisitioning of tires already on automobiles may be necessary.

Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, who has been more intimately associated with the rubber problem than Mr. Henderson, says domestic rubber production sufficient for all military needs and some civilian requirements will be a reality by the middle of 1943.

WHICH OFFICIAL IS RIGHT?

Mr. Henderson seems to be forgetting that rubber is absolutely necessary to the winning of this war.

The shortage problem cannot be solved by simply advising motorists to give up their cars "for the duration."

Millions of defense workers must ride many miles to and from war production factories.

Farmers are dependent on trucks to reach markets.

Soldiers who are transported four hundred miles up to the battle line will fight better than if they were forced to walk.

One important newspaper hits the nail squarely on the head when it says:

"Cut the tires from under the civilian population, and our civilization will cave in. Slogans won't save it, nor will alibis as to why sufficient synthetic rubber plants weren't built and put into operation in time. And we will have lost the war along with our civilization."

Mr. Henderson would do well to borrow some of the resourcefulness of Mr. Homer Pilkinton, a Salisbury, Md., farmer, who gathered weeds, boiled them on his kitchen stove, added chemicals and produced a synthetic rubber at a cost of less than 15 cents a pound.

There are probably hundreds of sources of artificial rubber in the United States.

It is everybody's duty to make a serious and determined effort to find and develop them.

DOWN IN MISSISSIPPI the Legislature is considering a law to prohibit members of high school fraternities, already illegal, from continuing in their classes.

The suicide of a student, driven to desperation by the actions of snobbish cliques of girls and boys, is said to have prompted the stern measure.

Many of our Massachusetts schools have similar problems. Clubs that like to consider themselves "exclusive" and "superior" give children and teachers many unnecessary headaches.

No student, especially one of high school age, can bear to think that he is unpopular or unwanted.

The result is that scores of brilliant youngsters fail to do their best work and many become so disheartened that they leave school as soon as the law permits.

High schools are FREE educational institutions supported by all kinds of taxpayers for all kinds of girls and boys.

They are not maintained for the children of the rich and the so-called intelligentsia.

The boy or girl who is unable to tolerate such democracy can always leave and attend a private academy or junior college. But, so long as he remains in a public school, he should never be allowed to make life miserable for other students.

STYLE-LOVING WOMEN won't have to worry any more; the War Production Board in Washington assures them that there will be no regimentation of feminine attire under the forthcoming conservation order which is expected to outlaw radical changes in dress throughout the current period of emergency.

This is a sensible decision.

If the ladies want becoming frocks, flattering hats and attractive shoes they should have them.

After all, the cost of a black dress is usually as much as that of a red or green one.

So why should any woman be required to look like a grieving widow when for the same expenditure she may resemble a blushing bride?

OUR AIRLINES, contrary to false rumors, are continuing the high standards of pre-war years.

Despite the pressure of war demands, commercial flying companies keep the ships in excellent mechanical condition, procure complete weather data and hire only the world's best pilots.

Proof of this is the fact that the insurance rates for all classes of airline transportation are now the lowest in history.

Another rumor that merits contradiction is the one that concerns air travel priority. The truth is airline reservation priorities, granted by the Government to persons engaged in essential war business, have interfered little with the business traveler.

On The Side

I do not love thee less for what is done

And cannot be undone. The very weakness hath brought thee nearer to me and henceforth

My love will have a sense of pity in it

Making it less a worship than before.

—LONGFELLOW.

ABOVE THOUGHT may be an inkling to the often asked question, "Why do women love heels?" Having a weakling for a husband makes a woman who handles him successfully feel more important. Then all authorities from Shakespeare to Clare Booth are agreed that pity inspires a woman's love. So, sir if you want to be really loved you better develop several weaknesses.

EVER HAD Apple Pie a La Will Rogers? This pie is made of apples, raisins, orange peel and cinnamon. And with it goes a large piece of American cheese on the side. . . . Before the war, Japanese were making electric light bulbs to sell for 2½ cents. Also fountain pens with gold points to retail at 7½ cents, a 9-ounce coffee service for 49 cents and a bicycle for $4.98. Some competition for American manufacturers to buck, what?

SIDELIGHTS: It was O. Henry who said of a well-dressed woman: "Her dress fitted her figure with adicty and discretion" . . . If you are interested in a non-alcoholic drink with a kick don't forget the Enrico Caruso cocktail, which is a mixture of Worcestershire sauce, clam juice and tabasco sauce . . . Backward look. The six best news stories of 1936 were: 1. Abdication of King Edward. 2. President Roosevelt carried 46 States. 3. Hauptmann executed. 4. Mary Astor's Diary. 5. Civil War in Madrid. 6. Schmeling Beats Joe Louis . . . As for sentences that are difficult to say three times in rapid succession I think the most difficult is: "The old cold soiled said a school coast scuttie." Give it a try.

ASIDES: "I worked at a hotel where Kathleen Norris stayed," said the waitress, "and one thing I remember about Mrs. Norris is that she ordered pickles and asked that they be pickled before being served" . . . Fanny Lily Rose Raisin lives in Fargo, N. D., and a charming resident of Los Angeles is named Miss Dimple Chien . . . San Francisco has a memorial to Duncan Nicol, originator of Pusco Punch. This highly popular drink is no longer served. The originator took the recipe to the grave with him . . . One of the most interesting competitions I ever saw, and one which I would like to see again, was a tail wagging contest for dogs. The winner in the tail wagging event I saw won with a score of 320 wags per minute. Speaking of pups, I had dinner in a restaurant featuring steaks the other night and outside the place there was a small dog which was begging for pieces of steak. Every time anybody came out of the restaurant this pup would wag his tail and then sit up in begging style.

country, is one titled "How to Make a Bed." An Army sergeant should be the author. Not one woman in several thousand knows how to make a bed properly. I have mentioned this before; reason I mention it again is that I stayed in a hotel last night and was so uncomfortable from covers slipping around and having my feet stick out from under same that I got up and made the bed over.

WOMEN, ETC.: As to the fall of France, how much did the way the Frenchmen treated the Frenchwomen have to do with it? Before World War II a married woman of France couldn't have her own bank account—or sign any legal document. Her husband could open her letters and legally beat her if she disobeyed. If a wife ran away from home, her husband could send the police after her. A French husband could call for police assistance to secure divorce evidence against his wife. A wife could be arrested and sent to jail for being unfaithful. To secure a divorce, a Frenchwoman had to prove her husband was unfaithful in his own home. Away from home didn't count. But no matter where a French wife was unfaithful, she could as a penalty for the misstep be jailed and divorced.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q. Where does the West begin? A. All I know, sir, is that the slogan of Fort Worth, Tex., is "Where the West Begins." Q. Who holds the record for having been America's youngest grandmother? A. Mrs. Morris of Tolt, Wash., gave birth to a child at 14. This child married on reaching the age of 13 and gave birth to a child at 14, making Mrs. Morris a grandmother at the age of 28. If that isn't the record, I ask somebody to tell me what is. . . Q. Is there a plant that eats sausages? A. Yes, sir, the Darlingtonia Chrysanthemum eats sausages. Also eats ground round steak and Hamburgers.

MAYRIS TO RETURN TO STAGE

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, March 11—Rita Hayworth, who is divorcing her husband, and Victor Mature, whose wife is divorcing him, are the Coast's most inflammable combination. . . . The girl Adolf Hitler expects to marry "when the war is over" is Theresa von Thorn, one of the five daughters of an aristocratic Bavarian family which was the first to go Nazi in the old days. She wears bangs a la Claudette Colbert and is Der Fuehrer's chief hobby at Berchtesgaden.

The Vincent Kordas—she's Gertrude Musgrove, of the late "Heart Of A City"—have Reno in the beam-o . . . Deanna Durbin's groom, Vaughn Paul, will be one of Uncle Sam's finest within a fortnight. Max Baerberger, the stock broker, is blitzing Harry Richman's hopes of reconciliation with Hazel Forbes. He wants to marry her, too.

DIANA BARRYMORE has had a Barymoresque tiff with her fiancé, Bramwell Fletcher . . . Mayris Chaney of the OGD fracas is due to return to the stage with a new partner shortly. Her Frisco hat shoppe, incidentally, has done a whopping business since the recent headlines.

Prince Mohammed Ali Ibrahim of Egypt and his bride, daughter of the former Sultan of Turkey, are knitting tiny garments.

A new movie company, backed by a pile of money, will debut soon—staffed by many former Selznick executives. It may even boast the services of the Lunts and other famous theatrical names. Ted Deglin, the p. a. of Madison Square Garden, is sailing . . . George Jessel has taken two physical examinations for the Navy.

BELLE BAKER'S SON, Herbert, and Bessie Davis' daughter, Beatrice, are a Broadway betrothal . . . When members of the American Theater Wing in charge of the Stage Door Canteen for the boys in service mentioned that they needed milk for the boys, Eddie Cantor asked: "How much?" They told him they had to have more than $25 worth a day. "Get it," said the comedian, "and send the bills to me from now on."

Pee Wee Donaldson, the chorine who several years ago hopped Primo Carneia on the schnozzle, will have her current marriage dissolved in June.

WILLIAM SAROYAN and Carol Marcus are a heart today . . . Garson Kanin has leased Miriam Hopkins Sutton Place house, pretty far quarters.

Alden Roark, the polo star who married Helen Wills Moody, enters the Army soon as a captain—and intimates believe she'll resume professional work.

Ireland could play a dirty trick on Katharine Hepburn by joining up with the United Nations. Much of her new Philip Barry-Theater Guild play deals with the problem of getting Eire on the side of the Allies, and a switch in current events might mean another "Admiral Takes A Wife."

Ginger Rogers bought $200 worth of hunting and hiking boots at a Madison ave. sporting store while she was here. Going for a walk, Ginger?

LESLIE HOWARD is slated to come to the U. S. on a lecture tour—proceeds to go to war relief funds . . . Look for fireworks in the vicinity of the Copacabana this week when Eve Whitney joins the samba group. She's the current adoration of Jack Topping, who used to be enamored of Estelita, the Cuban canary in the same show.

Glenn Ford, the cinema actor, and Evelyn Carmel, the stockings model, are on the verge of an odd romance. They've never met, but they've been introduced over the long distance telephone and have a "blind date" arranged for his arrival in Manhattan.

"Guest In The House," which is doing well, has an initial cost of $35,000 to overcome.

DINAH SHORE'S estranged former manager, Frank Cooper, has a new find, Marie Green, whom he'll try to make "greater than Dinah." Well, it's nice trying.

The Stage Door Canteen has a secret "back door" through which the girls who volunteer to dance with the soldiers can give the slip to "stage door doughboys" who wait to take them out after hours.

All milk deliveries to your front door will probably be stopped on or before May 1, to save tires, gas and drivers. Deliveries will be made to retail stores only.

BITA HAYWORTH

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

A SURPLUSAGE OF TALENT most of it complaining that it hasn't enough to do, or too much of what is not good enough to do—should have Irving Caesar, producer of "My Dear Public," demolishing a good head of hair—his own—by the time you read this . . . But the Caesar man, like his great namesake of a couple of thousand years ago, has more self-confidence than a high-wire walker . . . He is sure that he has the makings of a smash-hit, and only a fool would intrude an opinion into a situation as concrete as that one . . . The post-premiere party at the Ritz-Carlton French Room was reminiscent of the days when the late Arthur "Shultz" Fleigenheimer and the intrepid Charles "Lucky" Luciano were putting their bankrolls against the Broadway wheel . . . Of course, the cast of merry-makers was quite different, being legitimate businessmen and the boys and girls from the show . . . But the wine flowed, and not like glue, and everybody was having a dandy time.

ONE GENTLEMAN, identified (by himself) as a backer remarked: "What fun for $2500!" . . . This sum undoubtedly represented the amount of his investment . . . Everybody was so nice that an innocent and non-partisan bystander found himself praying that the show will turn out to be a success . . . The first step in that direction might be a heart-to-heart talk between the great Caesar and all his principals, who swear by him as a talented and humane individual, in an effort to achieve harmony . . . Shows, like ballets, are wrecked by factions . . . What you miss in "My Dear Public"—and mind you these are not suggestions—are (a) Mitzi Green doing some comedy (b) Tamara, throughout a whole first act, (c) Smith and Dale teamed up together again, (d) a sock song, (e) LAUGHS.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: A Hollywood visitor of considerable fame got too gay for Boston (or any other town) Saturday night, and was marched to Station 4 for a recaptulation of a very ornery situation . . . (He was later "sprung," as the boys say) . . . Tommy Bodkin, as popular a company manager as there is in show business, is getting the sympathy of all his friends while his wife, Teddy, lies very ill in their New York home. Tommy is the boss of "Louisiana Purchase" . . . It was Mr. Bodkin who first noted a remarkable resemblance between a charming blonde dancer named Verdyn Stapleton, at the Coconut Grove, and the late Josephine Cohan, George M.'s sister . . . The resemblance is so striking that George, who idolized his sister, would cast Miss Stapleton in his very next show—it was agreed.

MISS STAPLETON besides dancing—is the opponent of M. Glancez, the table-tennis champion, and she ranks sixth among the table-tennists of the land . . .

MITZI GREEN
Her Comedy Is Needed

Belle Baker's bronchitis cleared up under treatment, and the popular singer played both performances at the Mayfair last night again after resting all Monday . . . The two new sensations of "My Dear Public" are the mischievous-looking little Miriam La Velle, who does those marvelous acrobatics, and a lovely-looking girl named Kitty Matten, who switches from laughter to a dead-pan expression in one of the most telling comedy scenes we have ever seen . . . Both girls are now in Boston, and Miss Matten, they say, is comparatively new to America . . . Little Miss La Velle, whose real name is Miriam La Velle Paterson, was the hit of the recent "Sunny River," a short-lived opera with Edmund Romberg music and an Oscar Hammerstein book.

THE CHILD'S (SHE IS 16) STORY is interesting . . . When she was beginning to walk, one foot swung outward . . . A doctor recommended exercise . . . Her mother, who now travels with her, bought the youngster a swing with a miniature trapeze . . . At 3 little Miss La Velle had developed such dexterity as a baby acrobat that she made her first professional . . . She has been dancing, and doing trapeze work and acrobatics, ever since . . . The technical name for those amazing evolutions in which she twists in an about-face while whirling through the air is "full twisting tinsles" . . . Miriam can do four of these, but only does two in the story.

Hollywood Today

DIANA IS VERSATILE ACTRESS

By Louella O. Parsons

Diana Barrymore

HOLLYWOOD, March 11—Wouldn't want to say that Diana Barrymore was given the Deanna Durbin role opposite Bob Cummings in "Boy Meets Girl" because her name starts with "D," but Henry Koster, the director, said he was glad Jawn's talented daughter's name is Diana because Deanna Durbin and Danielle Darrieux starred in his most successful American pictures. He even wishes he could change her name to Diana Barrymore.

Kidding aside, the role young Miss Barrymore plays in "Boy Meets Girl"—renamed "Love and Kisses, Caroline"—is that of an actress, a great woman, just in which, she will blossom as a girl of 14 (young Victoria was 12). Sadie Thompson and Jeanette MacDonald, all miss, look on the stage. Wonder if this will change the national plans of Diana and her agent, Fletcher, for she starts as soon as she finishes "Eagle Squadron."

MYRNA LOY

THE MANY HUMORS Myrna Loy is leaving M-G-M seem to be a bit premature, for I hear she is set for the colorful lead in Edna Ferber's "Amurrah," the character that gave Irene Dunne her first recognition and won all sorts of yearly awards and acclaim.

And while we are talking of rumors, Myrna's favorite producer, Arthur Hornblow, Jr., who lately joined the M-G-M producing staff, it is whispered, is to have "Dragon Seed" as his first production.

A LITTLE DEAL is simmering at this writing which, if it goes through, will take Phil Harris and Rochester to Columbia for a musical comedy. Jack Benny's writers—Bill Morrow and Ed Belton—would prepare the gags and dialogue, and they certainly know what Phil Harris can do and how Rochester can best get laughs.

A LINE OR TWO Patricia Morrison and Paramount are parting company. The reason is not Pat's poundage this time, but the decision of the Tara bosses not to pay the big increase on her next option. But is one of the prettiest girls in town and perhaps a chance of studios may be helpful—it often is. Remember Gertrude Egan, who picketed Producers Lasker and Brown outside Universal when she wanted a role in "So Ends Our Night"? Well, she's just been given a good part in their "The Moon and Sixpence," and without having to resort to such a sensational publicity.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The Sid Sackson, after six months of marriage, is still a bachelor. . . . Mrs. S. was formerly wed to Edna Moran, Garry Shandling and William Lister, who very much loved her; Greg Bautzer and Carol Bruce divorced; . . . Mrs. S. is at Ciro's; Dorothy Lamour still in the way with Wynne Roocomora; Sue Shomon, Marjorie's stand-in, was rushed to the hospital last week and appendix; Claudette Colbert's favorite doctor, Dr. Joel Pressman, leaves for Florida soon. He is now with Claudette at Sun Valley, Guy Kibbee is in the town of Hollywood but just to catch a plane to his home in Los Angeles.

That said today, see you tomorrow. . . . Betty Fowler, Le. Angeles says.

Two heads and a story. . . . The two heads are the heads of the story.

LOVELY CLAUDETTE COLBERT
Enjoys Rest at Sun Valley

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Hellzapoppin," 40 per cent new since those Mad Men of Mainz Lane, Olsen and Johnson, first blazed the escapologist trail here in September, 1939, opened a return engagement at the Majestic Theater last night.

Even without the presence of its creators and co-stars, inescapably committed to an apparently interminable stay on Broadway in this production's offspring, "Sons O' Fun," the welcome accorded "The New Hellzapoppin" was louder than any ever extended vaudeville's fabulous loons in Beantown.

It may be that their not too particular but certainly funny brand of entertainment has more value in these critical, history-making days. Then, again, there may be something to the cliché that nothing succeeds like success.

When they were drawing down $600 a week on the Keith circuit, Ole and Chick were glowing at striking pay-dirt. Today, they clear $12,000 a week and, to coin a phrase, that's not hay.

MUTT AND JEFF TEAM

But it is Jay C. Flippen and Happy Felton, who have succeeded them in "The New Hellzapoppin," with which your play reporter and you are more immediately concerned.

This Mut and Jeff comedy team are happily spotted in "The New Hellzapoppin" and prove to be competent ring-leaders in the evening's tireless, titanic shenanigans. They are not, it must be admitted, even if grudgingly, on a par with the monumentally zany Olsen and Johnson, who are out of this world when it comes to mirth and mad, mad minus a stoplight.

But until Ole Olsen and Chick Johnson can be two places at the same time, they'll do nobly. The two keep the show going at a fast clip, aided by a supporting cast competent, electrical and, in some instances, curvaceous.

The latter adjective has nothing whatever to do with Shirley "Death Takes a Holiday" Wayne, who continues to hoard laughs with her deadpan violin playing.

OTHER HOLDOVERS

Also remaining over from the original production are the Radio Rogues, with their uncanny imitations on the air; the Charioteers, a septan quartet, and their incomparable harmonizing; Kato and Mann, whose comedy teamwork is a pleasure, and others.

The balloon man, the rubber plant that achieves longevity in three brief hours, the Bowery humor, Mrs. O. in her discouraging man-hunt for Oscar, the strange people popping out of the woodwork to ask embarrassing questions, and the chorus cuties deserting the stage to dance the boompas-a-daisy with the aisle pew holders—these all hold over from the original Broadway smash hit.

Early arrivals last night were surprised to discover that the opening number is an organ prelude, followed by the flagrantly sentimental "Humoresque" and "Perfect Day."

DIGNITY SHORT LIVED

But the dignified beginning was soon shattered by the first act's opening "Hellzapoppin" number, with the ensemble participating and sit-downer Al Barry not even vouchsafing a cabman's nod.

The acrobatic Billmorettes, vocalizing Three Dels and the dancing Lydia Sue represent the deft and credible. In the absence of his a woman-producer-comedian-father, young Stephen Olsen does yeoman service with the expertise of a veteran.

To attempt deception of an Olsen-Johnson stage revue is to tilt at windmills. It is sufficient to indicate that as always the sky is the ceiling on zaniness in this as in any other production spawned by the ineffably cast Messrs. O. and J.

'H. M. Pulham, Esq.' At Beacon Tomorrow

"H. M. Pulham, Esq.," film version of the John P. Marquand best-seller with the Rack Bay locale, is to be seen on the Beacon screen, starting tomorrow. Robert Young, Hedy Lamarr and Ruth Hussey are starred.

The co-feature, "It All Came True," stars Ann Sheridan, Humphrey Bogart and Jeffrey Lynn.

Beauty hints by Arlene Gould, every day in the Boston American.

Gene Krupa and His Drums On Old South Newsreel Screen

That they are not all "drums of war" is being currently demonstrated on the Old South Newsreel Theater screen by Gene Krupa, America's ace drummer, who with his orchestra is starred in a featured short.

While Krupa's drum beat antics amaze the customers, a comedy note is introduced when one of his players strikes a sweet and true note on the saxophone in a number that is dedicated to the wrong notes thatirk an orchestra leader. Krupa reverses the charge by looking pained at this turn.

Krupa's top number is "Jungle Madness," which reveals him at his best on his elongated stove-pipe drum.

AMPARA AND EMILIO, co-stars, dance the Bamba in "She-Devil Island," which, with the sensational "Sins of Bali," today begins its fifth week at the Fine Arts Theater.

'Kings Row' for Twin Screens

One of Hollywood's most widely discussed pictures in years, "Kings Row," screen adaptation of the best-seller starring Ann Sheridan, Ronald Reagan, Robert Cummings and Betty Field, tops the Paramount and Fenway double bill starting tomorrow.

The co-feature is "Melody Lane," with Leon Errol, Baby Sandy, and the Merry Maes.

"Kings Row" is the story of a town—a small mid-western town, and of the lives of four young people who grew up there. The action of the story spans the years from 1890 to 1914, but it might of happened any time—or any place. It is a story of love and hate, bitter tragedy and rich comedy.

Sam Wood, who made "Good-bye, Mr. Chips," and "Kitty Foyle," among others, directed from a script done by Casey Robinson, who authored such hits as "Dark Victory" and "All This and Heaven Too." A brilliant supporting cast includes Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Kaaren Verne and Harry Davenport. "Melody Lane" has a supporting cast headed by Anne Gwynne and Robert Paige.

Victim of an accident in the railroad yards where he has gone to work after losing his money, Ronald Reagan is taken home by Ann Sheridan who marries him in "Kings Row," opening tomorrow on the Paramount and Fenway screens.

Turning the Other Cheek Suicide Pact

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

There are a lot of punks writing books instructing you how to become after-dinner speakers. That's a lot of baloney and second helpings too.

I teach people how not to make after-dinner speeches. I once traveled twenty-five hundred miles to dummy up and refuse to rat.

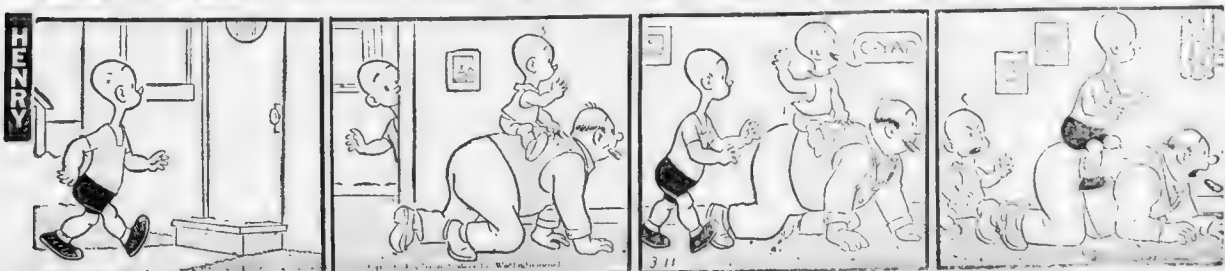

My speech is still memorable. After being annoyed by the other speakers and the toastmaster, I said, "Gentlemen, you are welcome to your city," and sat down.

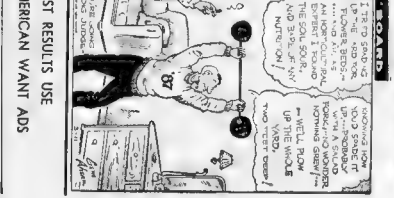

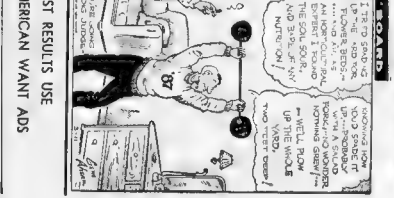

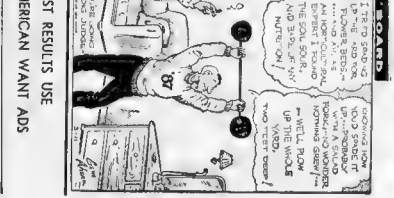

That's not as short as Wilton Lackaye's postscript after a long-winded introduction by a mugg who closed by saying the audience would now hear Lackaye's address. Lackaye rose and said, "My address is the Lambs' Club."

'MOTHER ILL, NEEDS ME,' KID'S REPLY TO CRITICS

By Herb Finnegan

SARASOTA, Fla., March 11—If ever a kid stood alone in the world, that kid is Ted Williams, 23-year-old Red Sox outfielder and current king of major league batsmen. If the fate of a nation depended on Ted's decision to play ball this year

Dodger Players Would Chip in To Sugar Wyatt

By the Associated Press
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Brooklyn Dodger players, arriving here after a three-week training sojourn in Havana, discussed among themselves the possibility of chipping in $300 each to meet the salary demands of holdout pitcher Whitlow Wyatt, who hurled 22 victories last season.

"That would be cheap enough pennant insurance," said one player.

AVAILON, Cal.—Manager Jimmy Wilson says the Chicago Cubs will be out to take every game from the White Sox in the exhibition series at the Stadium.

"The Sox will face our best in every game," he said, "the experimenting will be done against other National League clubs."

DE LAND, Fla.—Manager Luke Sewell says his first look at a full infield combination as first sacker George McQuinn donned a St. Louis Browns' uniform after signing his 1942 contract. Don Gutierrez was at second, Vernon Stephens, a promising Toledo prospect at short, and Harold Cliff at third.

PASADENA, Cal.—The possibility that manager Jimmy Dykes may have Taft Wright bat in the No. 4 slot has the pudgy White Sox outfielder worried. Wright maintains that the cleanup position is a personal jinx although he was in and out of the role last season and hit .322.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Knowledge that it is illness and not displeasure with the New York Yankees' salary offer that is keeping Red Rolfe from the training camp leaves Joe DiMaggio, outfielder, with the distinction of being the club's only holdout. Rolfe, suffering from colitis, is en route to Toledo for an examination.

against the advice of one and sundry to enlist in the Navy, no decision could have been made more honestly.

Knowing Ted and his family affairs, we felt that to be true when it was broadcast that Ted had been deferred by the President's board in Washington, after Minneapolis had voted 5-0 against repeal of his status.

We knew it to be true after an hour-long talk with him.

Here are some of the highlights from that talk, 10 minutes after his arrival in Sarasota:

(1)—I never requested deferment myself. I never signed anything. I never paid a lawyer a single cent for services.

(2)—My mother had one operation last fall. She's to undergo another shortly. It's asking a lot of an ill woman to go out and work.

(3)—Anybody who knows the true facts of the case won't condemn me.

(4)—If I wasn't convinced I was right; if for one minute I thought my 3-A classification was not justified, I wouldn't be here to face the music.

(5)—I know how the fans are going to get on me, but I'll take it. I've got to play ball this year. If I don't both my mother and I will be penniless.

(6)—Col. J. E. Nelson, Minnesota Selective Service director and appeal agent Harold Estrom, have been quoted as saying I requested appeal. Col. Nelson told my lawyer friend:—"If it was anybody but Williams, it would be a simple 3-A case. I'll appeal it for him myself." I told Estrom:—"If you think my case is deserving, appeal it; if you don't forget about it."

Williams has been blunt with the press; blunt with fans, perhaps, but he's always been honest, particularly so with himself. The newsgatherers were convinced of this after his straight-from-the-shoulder discussion of his case. Here's how it came about.

First Request—A Bat

Ted had driven directly to the Sox clubhouse where the Orlando boys were waiting for him. Naturally, the first thing he asked for was a bat. He was given one of Don DiMaggio's and went outside to swing it. Then Vince Orlando gave him two new 36-ouncers, and he sat down to home them. Then a shower, where the reportorial wolf pack caught him.

"Everybody brown, but me," he quipped as he came out, towel-drying himself.

"Hiya Skipper," he yelled to Joe Cronin who came in at the photographers' request. "What time do we hit in the morning?" "Hitting, hitting, hitting," everybody thought. "Wonder if this guy knows there's a war going on."

Williams certainly did and proved it forthwith. He sat down on the locker room bench and, with an aching back in his eyes, came clean with everything.

He had been 3-A last summer. After war was declared he was notified he had been put in 1-A and was ordered to report for physical examination. He was non-plussed. Had the rules been changed? He went to the draft board to find out. Wendell Rogers, a lawyer on the board, reviewed his case. Said Rogers, "I don't know why you've been reclassified. I'll see what I can do about it."

Rogers advised Ted to make out a more complete file of his case. He wrote to his mother, he saw Doc, for more data. Meanwhile he passed the physical exam. The draft board wanted to know why Ted's mother couldn't work. He told them of her illness yet they voted down his appeal to appeal.

John Fagre, lawyer partner of Rogers, took the matter up with Col. Nelson. "Ordinary 3-A case, but the fact that Williams is involved makes it an exception," replied Col. Nelson.

Why an exception?

"I'll appeal the case for Ted myself," Nelson promised Fagre. Nelson went to Estrom. The latter called Ted at Princeton, Minn. Estrom went over Ted's draft file. "What do you want to do?" he asked Ted.

"If you think my case is deserving, appeal it; otherwise forget it," Ted replied.

$6000 in Annuities

He went back to Princeton. One month later he was notified the President's board had repealed the Minneapolis finding and had deferred him to class 3-A.

"Listen, fellows," Ted said earnestly at the meeting's end. "I've been playing ball four years but you know yourselves I never made any money until last year. I took out $6000 in annuities then which I have to pay for two more years."

"If I don't they'll lapse and both mother and I will be left penniless. If I play ball this year, I may be able to pay them off. Then I'll be ready to enlist in the Navy."

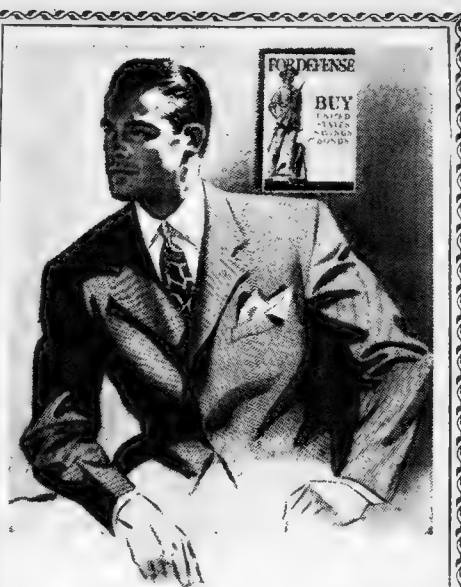

"I know what I'm doing. And I'm doing it against everybody's advice. Sox officials wanted me to enlist. And I would if I could."

"I'm doing this on my own and only because I have to do it."

"Didn't you hear from Landis or Harridge at all during the proceedings?" Ted was asked.

"I don't know whether I should tell this or not," Ted replied, "but only the other night I got a phone call from Harridge (A.L.) prexy and he told me: 'Ted, keep your chin up. I think you were right in what you did. Just act like you did a year ago, and the fans will be cheering before season's end.'"

Who can say that Harridge isn't right?

Bruins Clinch Third Place

One of the most amazing chapters in the history of the National Hockey League may be written into the records during this next month and the heroes of this saga will be no other than the Boston Bruins.

This great machine—probably the greatest ever assembled—which was wrecked a month ago may rise to win the Stanley Cup.

Call it improbable or even fantastic, but it can happen.

Last night 8600 fans saw the Bruins club the ears off the Chicago Blackhawks to the tune of 9 to 1 and sew up third place mathematically in the National Hockey League race from these same Hawks who are now five points down with two games to go.

And it's off that one performance that experts are now beginning to do a little figuring.

If these battered Bruins can elude the Blackhawks so unmercifully why can't they take Series B in the Stanley Cup playdowns from the Chicago outfit and move into Series D against the Detroit-Canadiens winner.

Against either Detroit or Canadiens with the advantage of the extra game at home, the Bruins are a good even money bet to advance to series E, the finals, against the Rangers or Maple Leafs.

EIGHT STITCHES FOR HILLER

There's no denying that the Bruins right now are not in a class with either of the top teams, but after the Leafs and Rangers get through with what figures to be a gruelling seven-game series, the winner could be cut down to the size of the Rosenmen.

But let's get back to last night's affair, a rough, tough session at times in which the Bruins won in goals and also in stitches. Clare Martin was tapped on the forehead to take four stitches in the first period. In the second period Dutch Hiller fell during a scramble and an enemy skate almost severed his left ear. Dr. Marty Crotty had to take eight stitches to sew it together.

Despite these mishaps it was a happy night for the Ross A. C. as the boys picked up 22 points. Oddly enough, the only two who did not "fatten up" outside of Bismsek, were Clare Martin and Dutch Hiller, the two gent's who were hem-stitched.

Flash Hollett and Roy Conacher led the attack with two goals and an assist each while Jack McGill also picked up three points on a goal and two assists. Gordie Bruce and Herbie Cain came up with a goal and an assist while Des Smith and Jake Shewchuk both nudged tallies past Lo Presti, Art Jackson, "Busher" Jackson and Lloyd Grosndal were credited with two assists each and Captain Jack Crawford took the remaining assist.

This score of 9 to 1 makes it look as though it was all Bruins.

BILL COWLEY MISSES TRIP

Bill Cowley, Bruins great playmaker, won't see action this week. Art Ross of the Bruins announced today.

The Bruins had hoped to get their star center back for the trip which opens in New York tomorrow night and continues in Toronto Saturday.

But Ross said that Cowley's general condition isn't quite sharp enough for action yet, and so Bill will get in a lot of skating here in Boston for the next few days.

Ross said Bill positively would play with the Bruins in the Gardent next Tuesday night against the Americans.

But the two teams were deadlocked at one-all after the first 20 minutes of play. The game was only 1 minute and 14 seconds old when Bill Mosenko beat Bismsek from close up.

HAWKS FOLD IN 3D PERIOD

Then came the fun—for the rest of the period the Hawks had only four shots at Bismsek, including a four-minute session when the B's were a man short. The Rossmen, on the other hand, hit Lo Presti from every angle, but the Chicago goaler made 23 stops. It looked like one of his big nights and that meant possible grief for Boston.

In the second period Herbie Cain fed Des Smith a sweet backhand pass, and Desse hit the strings. Hollett golled a Bruce assist and Conacher then blazed a 40-footer at 12:38 to put the locals out front, 4 to 1, as the second period closed.

That third period was a session the Hawks would like to forget. First it was Shewchuk on a long screen shot, then Hollett soloed for a sweet tally and Cain followed by lifting a faceoff pass home. With 25 seconds of play remaining, Conacher whistled another in on a play set up by McGill and Grosndal. Eleven seconds later Conacher and Grosndal did their part to aid McGill.

And that's the story of a rough game that turned into a rout.

Nine goals is a new high for the Bruins this year and it's the worst looking the invaders have taken from the Bruins in many years. After the rough fray, the home dressing room looked like a hospital ward—Hiller and Martin were really patched up while Gordie

THE HAT TRICK—Almost. Flash Hollett came up with two goals last night and just missed his third. From the grin, it looks as though Hollett (No. 2) beat Lo Presti again but Sam just managed to save off the toe of his skates. Lo Presti wasn't so lucky during the rest of the game for he was passed nine times while his mates were only able to pass Frankie Bismsek, Bruins' goalie, but once. The Rossmen clinched third place by the victory and are still in running for second.

THERE GOES ROY—Mr. 9 himself beat Sam Lo Presti, Chicago goalie, to the puck, went around him and there was Conacher's second goal of the night. It came late in the third period and put the Bruins ahead 8 to 1. Roy then assisted on another tally to bring the final count to 9.

32 Army Routine Adds To Louis' Strength

FORT DIX, N. J., March 11 (AP)—As though income tax time and the draft and such matters weren't enough just now, the heavyweights in general and Abe Simpson in particular were informed today that Joe Louis is stronger now than he's ever been.

Buck Pvt. Joe, himself, says it's so. What's more, Joe says this Army life is the thing that turned the trick and changed him from a comparative weakling into the great big strong man he's suddenly become.

"It's not only the Army work and stuff," Pvt. Joe said as he went through his chores in preparation for his March 27 Madison Sq. Garden party with Simon, "but when you're in the Army, you don't get out as much. There's not so much time for fooling around. So you just build up naturally."

FULL PROGRAM

Joe isn't kidding about this. His program these days is full. He's up at 5 a. m. for six miles of road-work. When he comes back he takes an hour's nap, then sits down for some work with a knife and fork, and then has to run through his two-hour daily drill in his basic Army training. After that, he has his training to do for the Army emergency relief fund affair with Abie.

When dinner's over, any spare time before the lights go out at 10 o'clock can be used to play some table-tennis, toss some darts, have a whiff at gin rummy or checkers or some juke pouring from the electrical music box someone gave him for a Christmas present.

"I'm in much better condition right now than I was after the same amount of training for Buddy Baer in January," Joe admits. "I'm five pounds less than I was then, and I'll probably come in at 205 the night of the fight." (He weighed 200½ for Buddy, who when he disposed of with some six or eight punches.)

JOE APPEARS BIG

One look at Joe gives the impression he's grown tremendously. A lot of this extra size, of course, is the excess weight he'll take off of between now and March 25, when he wraps up training.

But, while his legs are heavier and he moves somewhat slowly in the preliminary sparring stages, he looks huskier and the shoulders and back are a lot firmer and neck. He says it's so, because things were tough enough on those fellows who had to go into the ring with him up to now.

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY For Girls' Court Tilt

Entries for the girls' amateur independent gold medal basketball tournament, to be held in Woburn March 15, 17 and 21, will close tonight.

The tournament is limited to amateur players and all independent girls' teams are welcomed together with high school girls' teams. Entries may be filed at the Woburn Y. M. C. A., with Herbert Zauche.

GIPP'S BLOCKER NAMED RAMS' ACTING COACH

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—The same system that brought Fordham University 72 triumphs and only 14 defeats in nine years under Jim Crowley will be continued with Earl F. Walsh, big, smiling Towan, at the helm.

Walsh was named acting coach of the Rams last night, and Crowley was given a leave of absence to join the Navy, where he probably will aid in tough-and-flying cadets by football methods.

The new Fordham boss was Crowley's chief scout and backfield coach during his nine-year tenure and came to the Rose Hill institution after having spent a

Harvard Quint Meets Penn

Harvard's varsity basketball team will play its last home game of the season when it meets Pennsylvania at the Indoor Athletic Building at 8:30 tonight.

The game will be preceded by a Harvard freshman-Dean Academy game at 7 o'clock.

Coach Earl Brown of the Harvard team plans to start the same lineup that took the floor against Yale. Bunks Burditt and Ed Buckley, Harvard's leading individual scorers, will be at forwards, Hugh Hyde at center and Capt. Bud Finegan and Ed Rothschild at guards.

McCreery President Of Horseman's Ass'n

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 (AP)—The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association last night elected Maj. T. H. McCreery, New York trainer and owner, as its president.

He succeeds James Fitzsimmons, who was chosen chairman of the board. It was announced that Hialeah Park donated $4710 to the association's Florida division.

BACKSTRETCH BREVITIES

By Associated Press
W. J. (Buddy) Hirsch, son of famed Trainer Max Hirsch, has sold his lone horse and left for Washington where he hopes to enter government service.

Most of the horses in his care at Tropical Park were turned over to his father although the King Ranch's Rise Above it was shipped to Kentucky and Varsity to the Virginia farm owned by the widow of Admiral Carl Grayson, now Mrs. G. L. Harrison.

Charles Caffarelli, quiet New York horseman, died unexpectedly of a heart ailment at Hialeah Park early yesterday morning. He was known primarily as a trainer although he campaigned his own horses, Talent, at the Florida meetings.

The Calumet Farm horses in charge of Trainer Ben Jones will be shipped from shut-down Santa Anita to Keeneland Park Saturday. Heading the list will be Whirlaway, forced to remain idle on the West Coast through the cancellation of the programs.

Herbert Bayward Swepe, chairman of the New York Racing Commission, will stay in Miami for a greater part of the newly opened Tropical Park meeting. He is chairman of the board there.

The Tropical session overlaps the meeting at Jamaica by a day, April 9 being the New York inaugural. Jockey John Gilbert will remain in Florida for another week before heading toward Bowie. Later in the spring he expects to ride on the New York tracks.

Charles S. Howard's Midland probably will crack a crack at the $10,000 Tropical Handicap on April 10.

Eddie Arcaro hardly has stepped out of the limelight since he returned to the saddle at the start of the year after a sentence on the ground.

Up among the leaders all the way during the program at Hialeah, he piloted Requested to victory in the Flamingo Stakes and last Saturday scored sensationally with The Rhymer in the rich Widener.

Yesterday he had a double at Tropical Park with Gold Shower in the opener and Eternal Peace, a stablemate of Requested, in the featured mile and 70 yards Okeechobee Purse.

Eternal Peace scampered the distance in 1:24½ and paid his backers $9.50. Mrs. C. F. Sheldon's More Than a Few was second, with J. H. Miles' K Dorio third.

Diamond Candidates Working at Middlesex

Squads of 60 candidates, including five veteran letter men, are working out in the big glass cage at Middlesex School in Concord for the coming diamond season.

Jack Stanton of New Bedford, veteran pitcher and outfielder, is captain of the team, succeeding Captain Bill Barron, star catcher, now a freshman at Harvard. The other veterans on deck are Connel Atkins, hurler and outfielder; Dick Chenoweth, second baseman; Bill Eustis, outfielder and third sacker, and Phil Alton, left fielder.

During his nine years with the Rams he had one unbeaten team that of 1937, although it was tied by Georgia.

Mize on Shelf Again

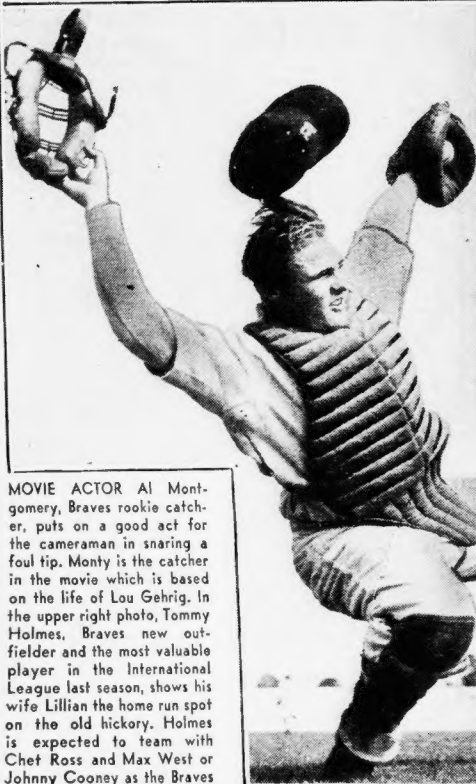

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 (AP) — First base, where Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants thought he was doubly protected only a few days ago, may be his weakest spot.

A wandering tendon in the right shoulder of huge John Mize, obtained during the winter for $65,000 and two players from the St. Louis Cardinals, hopped out of place again and the player was sent to a doctor for repairs.

Babe Young, custodian of the bag last year, still is with the club but is listed 1-A in the draft and has heard no word since his request for reclassification.

Mize had a bad shoulder at the time of his purchase but the present injury is believed to be a different one. The tendon jumped out the first time last Friday and was taped back in place.

He was able to throw last Saturday and Sunday. Monday the injury appeared to be healed but yesterday the tendon slipped again.

MOVIE ACTOR Al Montgomery, Braves rookie catcher, puts on a good act for the cameraman in snaring a foul tip. Monty is the catcher in the movie which is based on the life of Lou Gehrig. In the upper right photo, Tommy Holmes, Braves new outfielder and the most valuable player in the International League last season, shows his wife Lillian the home run spot on the old hickory. Holmes is expected to team with Chef Ross and Max West or Johnny Cooney as the Braves outfield.

$100 HOCKEY CONTEST GAMES OF WEEK OF MARCH 15 TO MARCH 21

Fill out each game with your score and send it in to the Hockey Contest Editor, Record-American, Box 228, Boston, Mass. Calculate the average scores of the winning and losing teams, omitting those teams for which you have predicted a tie. Your solution must be in this office not later than midnight, Thursday, March 12. Winners will be announced in the Sunday Advertiser of Sunday, March 29. You may use this blank or a facsimile of the same size. In the event of a tie, the proximity of estimated scores to actual tallies will determine winners. The decisions of the judges are final.

First prize, $50 cash.
Second prize, $25 cash.
Next 25 will be awarded one dollar each.
An entrant is allowed to submit THREE solutions, one each from the Record, the American and the Sunday Advertiser, although each member of the family is eligible to enter.
Anyone may compete except Record-American-Advertiser employees and members of their families.

Braves' Yannigans Test Hutchings, Tobin Curves

By BILL GRIMES

SANFORD, Fla., March 11—Although his entire squad has been in camp for only four days, Manager Casey Stengel's plans call for a seven-inning Yannigan game for this afternoon.

Jim Tobin, who is in better shape and lighter than he has been in three years, will start on the mound for Team A and John Hutchings will be assigned to hurl the first three rounds for Team B.

After Tobin and Hutchings have finished their chores, "Wild" Bill Donovan, a southpaw, who won 17 games for Bob Coleman last season at Evansville and John Sain, late of Nashville, will go for three innings.

Manager Stengel will use Frank McElyea, at first, "Skippy" Roberge, at the keystone sack, Nanny Fernandez, the former Mission, at short and Sibby Sisti at third on Team A with an outfield comprising of Chet Ross, Tommy Holmes and Paul Waner. Clyde Klutts and Phil Masi will do the receiving for the first variety.

Team B will have Al Montgomery and Jack Stuts behind the plate, Max West and Buddy Grempt at first, Johnny Dutra at second, "Whitey" Wietelmann at short and Tony Cuccinello at the hot corner. Hal O'Connor, Frank Demaree and George Washburn will play in the outfield.

The batterymen are far ahead of the rest of the squad, due to the extra week they've been in camp. However, it will not take long for the late comers to catch up.

Until yesterday, Nanny Fernandez, who hit for .327 and batted in 127 runs for the San Francisco Mission last year, didn't look too impressive. He rode from the Coast with his wife and was a very tired young man for the first two days he was in camp.

On his second day out, Nanny's legs tightened up. However, just as soon as he had two good legs under him and his eyes were clear, Fernandez began to show fine promise with that bat.

He's built along the lines of Tony Cuccinello but is a couple of inches taller than the veteran. He has powerful shoulders and a firm pair of legs.

Already he has displayed great power to all three fields and his defensive play belies the rumors that he has poor hands.

ROSS TO CUT LOOSE

Chet Ross will have his first real chance to try out his legs today. He has been taking things fairly easy, under instructions from Casey Stengel. Like all of the other players, Ross' legs bothered him for a couple of days, but now that the lameness is lessening, he can bear down, for the soil is solid and there are no holes in the outfield.

President Bob Quinn and Manager Stengel are anxious to see Ross in action. If the big Buffalo boy is right, the Braves will have plenty of hitting power. During his first, and only full season with the Braves, Ross was "tops" in the R. B. I. department. In the three days he has been here, Ross has shown that he hasn't lost any of his power. He has ridden balls over the left and even the right field fences and there's been plenty of zip on the balls he's rifled through the infield.

'T' TEACHERS HOLD EDGE IN YALE RACE

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — The Yale Corporation is slated to meet Saturday and do something about selecting a new football coach for Old Eli and from all indications there's a 50-50 chance that a teacher of the "T" formation will be chosen.

Two names probably will be presented for consideration. The university bloc, including most of the athletic department and certain undergraduate groups, apparently favors elevating Ivan Williamson, the old Michigan player who has been a Yale assistant coach since 1934.

FRNK's "DARK HORSE"

The grads, represented by the Alumni Advisory Committee, have been surveying coaches who have made names for themselves through recent successes.

In this category are Clark Shaughnessy of Stanford, Henry Frnk of Tulsa and Frank Murray of the University of Virginia. Bud Wilkinson, Syracuse assistant coach, also was under consideration but apparently will go to Minnesota as freshman mentor.

Unless Frnk, former Temple assistant who gave Tulsa a Sun Bowl team in his first season, breaks in as "dark horse" candidate, the alumni choice seems to be limited to a pair of prominent exponents of the "T." Shaughnessy and Murray.

SHAUGHNESSY COOLING

There's some question about Shaughnessy's interest in Yale. He came East to talk things over but since he returned to California there have been reports that he'd prefer to stay at Stanford. Murray isn't talking, either, but no one can doubt that he'd think a long time before turning down a definite offer. It is known that he is collecting every bit of information he can get on the situation at New Haven.

H-Y SPONSOR ALL-STAR 'KID' COURT DUEL

"We'll lick the pants off Yale," muttered a dark-haired youngster last night on the basketball court of the Harvard indoor athletic building. The speaker was 15-year-old Charlie Kahn, one of 11 Greater Boston youngsters making up the 1942 All-Star Settlement House team of Boston.

Together with his mates, Charlie travels down to New Haven Friday to play a similar aggregation called the "Baby Blues," selected from hundreds of boys in the settlement houses of that city.

The contest, the first miniature H-Y game in the history of the two universities, will be one phase of a two-day program of entertainment planned for the youngsters by Phillips Brooks House of Harvard and the Yale Community Council.

COACHED BY VARSITY
These two undergraduate social service organizations nominated members of both the Crimson and Blue varsity hoop fives to coach the boys ten days ago. Capt. Chris Finigan and George "Bunks" Burditt of the Harvard team last night pronounced their squad fit and ready for the go.

Following the game in the afternoon, which will be witnessed by both Harvard and Yale hoopers, the All-Stars, who were chosen from 2500 boys in 25 Greater Boston settlement houses, will sit on the players' bench at the second H-Y varsity contest, visit New Haven and the Yale campus Saturday, and then return to Boston at night.

14-YEAR OLDER
After a stiff scrimmage last night between two quintets, Coaches Finigan and Burditt selected the following starting five: Charlie Kahn, paired with James Busby as forwards; Joe Rull, pivot; Dan Evans and Bill Craven, guards.

Kahn represents the South Bay Union; Busby, Margaret Fuller House of Cambridge; Rull, Olivia James of So. Boston; Evans, Roxbury Neighborhood House; Craven, the only 14-year older on the squad, Jamaica Plain House. Miniature Harvard spares include: Jim Giganti, Angelo Abbruzzi, both of Elizabeth Peabody House; Gordon McCaheen, Jamaica Plain; Russell Judd, Margaret Fuller; Herbert Labam, Ellis Memorial, and Peter Bucerchi, Olivia James.

Kronis Enters NEAAU Trials

Former State champion, Steve Kronis, North End, has filed his entry for the final elimination round of the New England A. A. U. championship trials, to be staged next Monday night by the Irish-American A. A.

Bouts will be staged in the eight championship classes, from flyweights to heavyweights. All entries must be filed in writing with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

Kanaly announces that already many entries have been filed for next week's eliminations, which include Walter Kijanka, Lowell, and Henry Gylis, South Boston, in the 112; Ralph Schomay, Boston, in the 118; Anthony Saita, Malden, in the 126; Johnnie Kizzo, East Boston, and Andrew Ekins, Roxbury, in the 135; Thomas Dinchara, Malden, and Sammy Kins, Chelsea, in the 147; William McKenzie, East Boston, in the 160, and Leo Munari, Boston, in the light heavyweight class.

Chmielewski Picked to Win Ring Title

Hitting as hard as ever and with his boxing improved 25 per cent in the last year, Henry Chmielewski, Cambridge, is expected to annex the New England middleweight championship Friday night at the Garden when he collides with Coley Welch, Portland, Me., over 12 rounds.

Always a severe biter, Chimmy has been picking up the fine points of the trade since coming under the management of Harry Kelley. Now Chimmy has all the makings of one of the finest middleweights in the business, a young man who knows his way around the ring and who packs a wallop with destructive proportions.

JACOBS INTERESTED

He's been established a slim favorite ever, Welch, even though Welch has whipped him twice in four starts. Chimmy took the other two and now shoots for the "rubber" and the N. E. crown. Welch has been campaigning successfully in New York where he caught the eye of Mike Jacobs.

Jacobs planned to put him in with middleweight champion Tony Zale but made the Zale-Billy Conn match instead. Jacobs is still interested in Welch, and will either be here in person Friday night or have his scouts on hand to see what he does against Chmielewski, the Polish machine-gunner.

It would be a nice spot for Chimmy to come through with a big win. It would hoist him into line for a large money bout, possibly with Tony Zale, Manager Kelley thinks Chimmy, now that he's improved his boxing, could give Zale a bundle of trouble.

Ralph Zanelli, Providence, meets Billy Lancaster, Portland, and Patsy Fanti, Lynn, tackles Jerry Zullo, Chelsea, in 8-round semifinals Friday night. Sixes will be Dave Andrews, Lowell Golden Boy, vs. Billy Nap, Roxbury, and Frank Conn, Haverhill, vs. Bobby Allard, Lynn. In the opening four popular Jimmy Taylor, Lowell, will tackle George Sherman, Dorchester.

Indian Favored Over 'Strangler'

Back in the city where he won some hectic matches when champion of the world, Ed "Strangler" Lewis will find himself in the role of underdog when clashes with Chief Osley Saunooke, 300-pound Cherokee Indian, in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly tournament tonight.

And it may be the Strangler's last appearance here ever, depending upon the outcome of the battle. "If I win it, I am confident I can beat The Angel for the world's title. But if I lose it I don't want to fool around in preliminary matches again. I was on top too long for that stuff," the Strangler said.

BOYS' CLUB SWIM FETE IN HARVARD POOL

Bill Bingham has once more offered the Harvard swimming pool to the New England Boys' Club for its sixth annual swimming championships on Saturday, April 4.

In the past this meet has brought together teams from every New England State except Vermont. The Olneyville Club of the Providence Boys' Club has emerged a winner six times straight. Runner-up in 1937, 1938 and 1941 was the local Bunker Hill Club of the Boys' Clubs of Boston. In 1939 and 1940 the Ionia Ave. Club of the Worcester Boys' Clubs rode home one wave behind the Providence Boys.

On Pacific

Protected by units of the fleet, a U. S. convoy moves across the horizon . . . headed for a destination somewhere in the Pacific. Merchantmen of every size make up the convoy.

On Watch

Like an eagle watching its young, a U. S. Navy blimp hovers over the convoy as it ploughs through the calm Pacific bearing cargoes of American manpower, planes and tanks.
